Identifier/Call Number: BANC MSS 2003/101
Physical Description: 36.65 linear feet (29 cartons, 1 box)
Date (inclusive): circa 1959-2001
Date (bulk): 1970-2000
Abstract: This collection contains materials collected on various toxic hazard campaigns and public advocacy committees, primarily in Arizona, by Michael Gregory of Arizona Toxics Information. Includes a wide variety of materials on subjects such as hazardous waste management facilities and the ENSCO plant in Arizona, the San Pedro Water Supply, air and water pollution on the United States-Mexico Border, NAFTA and fair trade, and the effects of pesticide use throughout the Southwest and Northwest.
Many of the Bancroft Library collections are stored offsite and advance notice may be required for use. For current information on the location of these materials, please consult the library's online catalog.

Conditions Governing Access
Collection is open for research.

Accruals
No future additions are expected.

Immediate Source of Acquisition
The Arizona Toxics Information records were gifted to The Bancroft Library by Michael Gregory in 2002.

Biographical / Historical
Arizona Toxics Information is a not-for-profit organization founded by Michael Gregory in 1990. Gregory worked with the United State Forestry Service in the early 1970s and witnessed aerial spraying of herbicides on the forests, which prompted him to start researching and collecting information about the toxic chemicals Arizona residents and those south of the border were being exposed. Gregory worked with the Sierra Club's Grand Canyon Chapter as well and served as Director of Arizona Toxics Information during the period these records document.
Arizona Toxics Information advocates for change in hazardous materials policy and management in order to protect public, occupational and environmental health, and sustain cultural and natural resources by providing access to reports, public presentations and workshops to the public and policy makers in an effort to educate them about occupational health and safety, as well as chemical and other toxic hazards.

Processing Information
Processed by Lisa Marie Monhoff in 2018 as part of a two-year NHPRC-funded project to process a range of archival collections relating to environmental movements in the West.

Content Description
This collection contains materials collected on various toxic hazard campaigns and public advocacy committees, primarily in Arizona, by Michael Gregory of Arizona Toxics Information. Includes a wide variety of materials on subjects such as hazardous waste management facilities and the ENSCO plant in Arizona, the San Pedro Water Supply, air and water pollution on the United States-Mexico Border, NAFTA and fair trade, and the effects of pesticide use throughout the Southwest and Northwest. The types of materials include correspondence, data, lawsuits, legislation, testimony, memos, studies, reports, environmental impact statements, comments by Sierra Club, the Border Ecology Project and many other NGOs, newsletters and news articles. (from http://www.bordereweb.net/cgi-bin/risee/beee/bw_showorg?id=&org=BW4616)
There is extensive overlap in subject matter within the series as almost all materials relate to environmental concerns in the West and particularly along the United States-Mexico border region.
Some materials in Spanish language.

Scope and Contents
The San Pedro riparian area, containing about 40 miles of the upper San Pedro River in Arizona, was designated by Congress as a National Conservation Area (NCA) on November 18, 1988. The primary purpose for the designation is to protect and enhance the desert riparian ecosystem, a rare remnant of what was once an extensive network of similar riparian systems throughout the Southwest. This series contains documentation on the campaign to create this riparian area and includes reports and studies on the San Pedro water supply and quality with materials related to development in the City of Sierra Vista (Arizona).

Scope and Contents
Contains documentation on the Environmental Protection Agency's Integrated Environmental Plan for the Mexico-U.S. Border Area or I.B.E.P. (Integrated Border Environment Plan), which preceded NAFTA. The agreement addressed the shared natural resources of the border region and the impact of binational pollutants. Includes correspondence, memos, reports, comment and testimony. Contains information collected by The Border Ecology Project, a not-for-profit organization advocating for environmental solutions, generally transboundary in nature primarily on the U.S./Mexican border, to improve the lives of those impacted by pollution. The Border Ecology Project works with many grassroots groups, including Arizona Toxics Information, to research issues and lobby for change.

Arrangement

Arranged into six subseries: 6.1 Phenoxy Herbicide, 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D (Agent Orange), Spraying in Tonto National Forest; 6.2 Tebuthiuron, Diquat and Other Herbicide Spraying; 6.3 Picloram; 6.4 Western Spruce Budworm, Medfly and other insects, Carbaryl and Malathion; 6.5 Rangeland Grasshopper Cooperative Management Program, Malathion; 6.6 Legislation and Litigation

Scope and Contents

Includes subject files on successful and partially successful campaigns to halt pesticide use on public lands (including national forests), lakes and rangelands. Contains documentation on harmful effects of pesticides, herbicides and insecticides such as carbaryl, Diquat, Picloram, Tebuthiuron, and 2,4,5-Trichlorophenoxyacetic acid or 2,4,5-T, a component of Agent Orange. Some records were retrieved through filing Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests. Includes correspondence, lawsuits, testimony, studies, analysis, research materials, news articles and some documentation and studies of the effects of Agent Orange on Vietnam War Veterans. Also includes papers of the Mesquite Alliance.

Physical Description: Carton 17, folders 20-30; Carton 18, folders 20-49; Carton 19, folders 1-30; Cartons 20, folders 1-16

Arrangement

Arranged chronologically with legal size documents separated into Cartons 17 and 20.

Scope and Contents

Scope and Contents
Contains information about the campaign to pass the Arizona Environmental Quality Act which was enacted into law August 13, 1986. The Environmental Quality Act abolished the previous agencies of the Water Quality Control Council and the Board of Pesticide Control and placed them under a broader authority, including under the newly established Department of Environmental Quality. This series contains records related to lobbying for and passing this law, including files regarding groundwater protection, permitting and regulation of water discharges that may degrade groundwater quality through release of pesticides, sanitary waste, hazardous waste, and other toxic materials.

Arrangement
Arranged chronologically with miscellaneous materials and news articles at the end.

Scope and Contents
Contains documentation of Michael Gregory's participation in the Chemical Manufacturers Association's Community Advisory Panel (also known as CAP, Public Advisory Panel or Public Advisory Committee). In 1988, the Chemical Manufacturers Association initiated their Responsible Care program for comprehensive environmental, health and safety improvement with mandatory compliance in the Responsible Care initiative for CMA members. CAP was created in 1989 and Michael Gregory, of Arizona Toxics Information, joined the panel in 1994. CAP works with the Vice President, Responsible Care, to advise on issues relating to the role of chemicals in society and is comprised of approximately 15-20 individuals with experience in community, business, academic, consumer, health, environmental and special interest organizations.
