Acquisition Information

Arlett's papers were given to The Bancroft Library by Mrs. Arlett in 1939. They relate to his various activities, especially those connected with the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, the Board of State Harbor Commissioners, the Progressive party and Plymouth Congregational Church.

Biographical Sketch

Arthur Arlett was born in Oakland, California in 1875. He was a building contractor by profession and was actively involved with numerous civic and political organizations. In 1912 he was appointed a member of the California State Commission for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. He was a Progressive Republican, a member of the Alameda County Central Committee and a delegate to the party's 1912 national convention. An ardent prohibitionist, he was a member of the Executive Committee of the California Campaign Federation and chairman of its Northern Department, and in 1916 served as chairman of the Northern California Dry Campaign Committee. He was also a member of the State Executive Committee of the Y.M.C.A. and a director of the Berkeley Y.M.C.A., a member of the Board of Governors of the City Club of Berkeley, a director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Pacific School of Religion, a trustee of the Plymouth Congregational Church in Oakland and was active in the Masonic Fraternity.

In 1916, Governor Hiram Johnson appointed Arlett president of the State Harbor Commission. Unfortunately, a short time later, he became ill with tuberculosis and was forced to curtail his activities. He spent several months in a sanitarium near Colfax and over three years in Kula Sanitarium on Maui, Hawaii, where he died in 1921.
