Scope and Content of Collection
A miscellany of mammoth plate landscape photographs assembled by The Bancroft Library from various sources. The great majority of images are by Carleton E. Watkins. A few formerly attributed to Watkins are known to be by C.L. Weed. Most images are of Yosemite, but views of San Francisco, Mount Shasta, Sonoma County, California Missions, and other California locales are also present. One Arizona view and several of Nevada’s Comstock region are also included. Image dates range from 1861 into the 1880s.

Additional Notes on Collection:
"Volume" designations within item call numbers actually refer to large boxes. It is not clear that any of these were ever bound as mammoth albums. Contents of some of the boxes (“volumes”) of this miscellany are clearly related by provenance, while others appear to be assembled from various unknown sources. Volume 1, for example, is in uniformly poor, remounted condition, but there is evidence of an earlier uniform style of captioned window mat on each. Volumes 2-3 appear to be miscellaneous assemblages. Contents of Volume 4, on the other hand, are on uniform original mounts and annotated in the same early hand, indicating a shared provenance, while Volume 5 contains items bearing Polhemus library bookplates on verso, and Volume 6 contains images once owned by J.J. O’Doran of New York. For more details regarding characteristics of each box, see The Bancroft Library’s online catalog.

Note
Item titles are supplied and may or may not correspond to captions or annotation found on Bancroft Library’s copy. Many are supplied from copies found at other institutions, as recorded by a Getty Museum catalogue raisonné project.
