Arrangement
This project brings together dispersed Oliver images from several separate Bancroft Library collections and the University Archives photograph collection. These collections were received and organized by the library as separate entities with different accession numbers. However, processing undertaken in 2001 revealed that items in the various collections were closely related, and that the existing divisions by accession number were largely meaningless. For example, often the negative for an image was found in one collection, while a print made from it was found in another. For this reason, the present finding aid is arranged by the subject matter of the image, in 17 artificial subject-based series, instead of by library accession number. These subject-based series were created by library staff, and do not reflect arrangement schemes used by the Olivers.

Numbering
Library staff created the numbering systems for all collections. If an earlier photographer's number was present, it was recorded as a note in the item description, but such numbers were not consistent enough to use as the basis for collection arrangement.

The largest Oliver collection is numbered BANC PIC 1960.010. For housing purposes, negatives are grouped by size, and library staff originally intended to use a different call number for each size-based grouping. However, this plan was never fully carried out, and 1960.010 was retained as the base call number. (Early collection documentation sometimes cites the number 1960.011 also, but this number has not been applied to the material.)

The first library processors of the collection also assigned item numbers to many of the images, but they started a new numbering series with each size grouping. The result was that item numbers were not unique, but were dependent upon the negative size.

During the processing project of 2001, the 1960.010 call number was kept, but divided into series in order to accommodate the non-unique item numbers previously assigned. Negatives measuring 4x5 inches or smaller (items 1-611) became Series 1 (BANC PIC 1960.010 ser. 1 :001-611). Negatives larger than 4x5 but smaller than 8x10 inches became Series 2 (BANC PIC 1960.010 ser. 2 :0001-1379). These series are useful for identification and retrieval only, and are independent of the subject groupings by which this finding aid is arranged. For storage purposes, the negatives are designated as 4x5, 5x7 and 8x10, but actual measurements tend to be smaller than the stated storage size.

Unnumbered items that had never been incorporated into the collection were given numbers by the project archivist in 2001. A group of small format negatives were added to the end of series 1, (numbers :612- :633.) Larger format negatives (housed as 8x10) that were previously listed as part of a so-called "separate series, with library numbering," were given previously unused item numbers from Series 2 (ser. 2 :0348-:0381). The item numbers :0382- :0417 remain unused numbers in Series 2.

The rest of the formerly unnumbered prints, negatives and lantern slides have been assigned numbers at the end of series 2 (BANC PIC 1960.010 ser. 2 :1379- ). An attempt was made to keep items together by subject as they were previously stored.

 Biographies

According to a written statement by his son Roland L. Oliver, William Letts Oliver "was born in Valparaiso, Chile, August 6, 1844. [He] was educated in Edinburgh, Scotland, graduated from Edinburgh University as a mining engineer, and then went back to Chile. [In 1861, he went] to Peru, then to San Francisco in 1868 in time for the big earthquake of that year." His experience with nitrates led him to establish the California Cap Company, an explosives business in the East Bay (of the San Francisco Bay Area). In addition, he also owned a company that manufactured the Doak stationary engine used to power pumps on horse-drawn fire engines. He resided Oakland until his death in 1918.

Oliver "belonged to both the S[an] F[rancisco] Yacht Club and Corinthian Yacht Club taking a very active part in both." As the Maritime series of this photograph collection demonstrates, he was an avid sailor, and participated in, and won, many yacht races in the Bay Area.

He was also a member of the Bohemian Club and the Pacific Coast Amateur Photographic Association.

Scope and Content

The Oliver Collection consists of approximately 2700 glass plate negatives and photographic prints taken mainly by amateur photographer William Letts Oliver and his son, Roland L. Oliver. The photographs date from the late 1800s to the early 1900s. Subjects include maritime and yachting scenes, views of California and San Francisco Bay area, University of California at Berkeley, mining, logging, the Bohemian Grove, and the Oliver family. Also of note are earlier photographs of Chile and Peru dating from 1860 to 1867.

Photographs are attributed to William Letts Oliver, his son Roland Letts Oliver, and occasionally other members of the Oliver family. Other notable photographers represented in the collection include W. H. Lowden and Gabriel Moulin.

Also present are professionally produced lantern slides of images by various photographers, and a magic lantern projector and small number of magic lantern slides with illustrations from children's stories.

Scanning selection
Approximately 2000 items were chosen for scanning. With selection emphasis on images of the San Francisco Bay Area, almost every University of California at Berkeley, San Francisco, Oakland and image was scanned. In addition, these items were cataloged in more detail. The criteria for selection of other images were based on subject content and image quality. When multiple formats of a single image were available, the preferred source for scanning was 1. vintage print, 2. modern print, 3. original negative. However, if a negative or modern print was clearly better than the vintage print, it was selected for scanning.

Other Numbering Systems
The Oliver Collection includes several different numbering schemes which were noted in this finding aid, but not used for the arrangement presented in the Image List. Two such schemes are Oliver’s numbering of his maritime views and numbers for a lantern slide presentation described below.

Oliver’s Numbering System: Maritime and Yachting
The following list is composed of titles and call numbers for images within the Maritime and Yachting series of the present finding aid. This list has been sorted in numerical order according to the original numbers assigned to each image by the photographer. For more complete descriptions and for selected digitized images, please see the corresponding title and call number with the Maritime and Yachting series, which is arranged in a different order.

Glimpses of California slide lecture typescript and notes

BANC PIC 1905.010 :02115–PIC

The typescript and corresponding lantern slides are from a slide show lecture sponsored by the members of the Pacific Coast Amateur Photographic Association held at Pioneer Hall in San Francisco on January 15, 1890. The slides were then shipped to various locations on the East Coast for slide presentations from 1890 to 1891. Slide views are by William Letts Oliver and other members of the Association.

Oliver images used in the Glimpses of California lantern slide show.

Only a portion of the slides are part the Oliver Family Photograph Collections, and they are distributed throughout the subject based series of the present finding aid. They are listed, below, according to the number they were assigned within the slide presentation. Full descriptions and selected digital images may be found within the present finding aid by searching either titles or Bancroft call numbers.

Notes on Description

Certain conventions have been followed in creating the descriptions found in this finding aid. Only when a specific name is found on the negative is the photographer's name given in the item descriptions in this finding aid. Other images are presumed to be by William Letts Oliver or Roland L. Oliver.

Titles, provided by the cataloger, are derived from information on the negative, negative sleeve or print. Quotation marks are used when titles or captions are taken directly from negative or print. Following the title, a caption line will occasionally be added containing directly transcribed titles or original annotations, while a more descriptive supplied title is used as the primary title.

Dates are taken from the negative or negative sleeves unless they are provided in brackets. Bracketed dates have been supplied by library staff.

Unfortunately, not all of the information found on the negatives, prints or sleeves has proven reliable. This is apparent with some conflicting dates and locations in the Oakland series, for example.

Maritime and Yachting

Content/Description

This series includes 583 images of yachts, yacht racing in the San Francisco Bay area, the San Francisco Yacht Club and members, ferries, shipbuilding (boat and ship industry), sailing on Lake Merritt in Oakland, and the Great White Fleet's arrival in the Bay. Many images of William Letts Oliver and other members of the Oliver family are included as well. Of note are 1960.010 ser. 2 :295 and :297, which are images of William Letts Oliver at the helm of a yacht.

In a note accompanying the collection, Roland L. Oliver describes four boats featured in this series. The Emerald was originally sloop rigged, [and] was imported via Cape Horn in about 1875 for racing purposes. It was 50 feet long by about 8 feet mid-ship, center board. Never defeated. When his children started aborning, he could no longer chance an over-sparred racer, so in 1879 he converted it to yawl-rigged for cruising and safety.

The Yacht Folly, a sturdy English clipper about 35 feet long superceded the Emerald which [William Letts Oliver] sold to a broker in 1890 because his health was suffering from a chemical gas (chlorine) at the Lucol factory.

Hey There, a speed boat, was bought by William Letts Oliver in about 1907, but sold shortly thereafter.

William Letts Oliver had the Bonnie Doon built in Alameda about 1909. It was 69 feet in length, powered by a Doak gas engine which was made in Oakland by a company he owned. He used it entirely in San Francisco Bay and the Sacramento River. It was strictly a pleasure boat for his family and friends, although once entered in a race with other power boats and won the cup.

University of California at Berkeley

Content/Description
This series includes 335 images which document buildings and life at the University of California at Berkeley, circa 1900. The images are distributed among the subseries of Buildings, Faculty and Staff, Students, Athletics (baseball, football and track), Summer School of Surveying, and Miscellany.

Both Roland Letts Oliver and Edwin Letts Oliver graduated from UC Berkeley in 1900 with a degree from the College of Mining. Many group photographs include one or both of the young Oliviers. Most of the photographs in this series were probably taken by Roland, and some were used to illustrate the yearbook Blue and Gold (1900).

Mining
Content/Description
This series, which reflects William Letts Oliver's profession as an explosives expert, includes 195 images of the mining industry, documenting explosive tests and paraphernalia as well as mines and miners. Of note are the mine shaft interiors, especially 1960.010 ser. 2 :0125, Tunnel No. 9 of Sierra Buttes Mine, and images of the California Cap Company and Lucol Company plants in Stege (Richmond, Calif.).

Oakland

Content/Description
This series includes 206 images that focus on the residential sections of Oakland, showing streets, interiors and exteriors of Victorian houses, and everyday life in this city. Of note are scenes of Martin Ryan, and assistant, laboring in a blacksmith shop.

Some of the negatives for the Oliver residences might be misidentified. The Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley City Directory, which was consulted as discrepancies were found, lists William Letts Oliver living at 1110 12th Street from about 1886-1896, 1066 12th Street from 1896-1901, and Vernon Heights from about 1902.

Travels and Outings

Content/Description
This series groups together 160 images of people on special trips or outings. The images suggest a planned excursion, such as a group outing to a wilderness area or people at a railroad station— not simply pictures of places away from home. Of note are three groups of images, which were originally labeled by the Olivers as separate trips, of Glen Alpine (Calif.), Idaho, and the Canadian Rockies. Similar images that seemed to be from local outings or day trips have been included in the Family and Friends series. Other general wilderness and landscape views can be found under various geographic series and Miscellany.

Alaska Travels 1885-1897

Content/Description
This series includes 98 images from at least two trips that the Oliver family took to Alaska. Among the photographs there are also views of Esquimault (British Columbia) and Portland (Oregon). A few images are dated 1897, but many of the undated images have been confirmed to date from 1885. Some picture the S.S. Ancon and its party stranded at Safety Cove while Captain Carroll departs by lifeboat for help and returns with the rescue ship Alexander. This event occurred in August, 1885 (see Scidmore, Eliza Ruhamah. Appletons’ Guide-book to Alaska and the Northwest Coast. NY: Appleton, 1896. pg. 25. Also reported in various newspapers, including the Los Angeles Daily Times, Thursday, September 03, 1885; Issue 79; col G.)

Dating is further complicated by the fact that “Oliver numbers” assigned to negatives by a family member appear to mix the journeys of 1885 and 1897; dated S.S. Queen images from 1897 appear around Oliver numbers 28-30, and earlier S.S. Ancon images appear with both lower and higher “Oliver numbers”. The images are arranged in this finding aid according to the “Oliver numbers,” so no chronology can be assumed.

This series also includes an album of selected Oliver photographs, with cover title "Souvenir of our trip to Alaska on the Ancon," with typeset captions printed on the pages. The album (numbered and cited as BANC PIC 1960.010–ALB) has not been described separately in the present finding aid. All of the images within it are duplicated by negatives and/or photoprints elsewhere in the Alaska series, therefore copies of views found in the album are simply described within the general series listing, in the order in which the series as a whole is arranged. Their presence within the album is indicated by an additional item description, with the album page noted. If any given view has a print present in the album, it can be dated to 1885.

Additional Note
"Harrold", from caption in album, was thought to refer to William Harold Oliver, born 1886. But this albums appears to record the 1885 Ancon voyage in which the party was stranded at Safety Cove. Unless the 1885 date is incorrect, the caption can not refer to Harold Oliver.

Hawaii

Content/Description
This series includes 32 images of Honolulu and surrounding area as well as Layson Island. In a statement accompanying the collection, Roland L. Oliver talks bout his father's work as a Kodak roll film pioneer. George Eastman paid the expenses to WLO and wife to Honolulu in 1887 to make exposures to test various formulas in hot, humid climate before deciding which to put on the market in various climates. [RLO] helped rock the long cradle shaped developing trays (homemade). Some [film] blistered, while other strips varied from not so good to excellent. There were no identification marks other than A, B, C etc., but Eastman came afterwards to ascertain how WLO's emulsion and developer formula behaved so well. Eastman went to [WLO] soon after the Passavant dry plates made such a fine showing amongst the photo scientists."

At the end of the series are photographs of Layson Island [or Laysan Island], a small portion of which were used to illustrate an article in The San Francisco Examiner (March 12, 1893): p. 15. The journalist states he met a photographer named Williams in Honolulu who accompanied him to Layson Island November-December 1892. This photographer is believed to have been James J. Williams of Honolulu. The connection to Oliver is unknown.

Bohemian Club and Bohemian Grove

Content/Description

This series includes 372 images which show both campsites and Bohemian Club members at the Grove from about 1896 to 1918, specifically Camp F-8, which was started by William, and then run by Roland. Many of the photographs are by W. H. Lowden and Gabriel Moulin. At the end of the series are silhouette portraits of members. Most of the prints seem to have been removed from a mount or backing.
