Biographical note

James Francis Lynch was born in Boston, Massachusetts in 1942. After graduating from Harvard College in 1964 with a Bachelor of Arts in geology, he headed to the University of California at Berkeley to pursue a PhD in the same discipline. Two years later, however, Lynch decided to switch his degree focus to zoology, ultimately earning his PhD from Berkeley in 1974 with his dissertation, Ontogenetic and geographic variation in the morphology and ecology of the black salamander (Aneides flavipunctatus). Lynch was then hired in 1974 as the first staff scientist at the Chesapeake Bay Center for Environmental Studies, now the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center, in Maryland. Lynch continued to work for the Smithsonian as a researcher for the next 24 years, eventually producing over 60 scientific publications. His work included more than three decades of extensive conservation research in Central America and Mexico. After a long battle with cancer, Lynch passed away on March 26, 1998.

Scope and Contents note

The James F. Lynch field note collection consists of nine bound volumes spanning the years 1966-1984. Originally maintained by the author in three-ring field note binders, the notes were later separated and bound chronologically. The notes include journals, catalogues, and species accounts from localities within the United States as well as abroad, including: Mexico, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Panamá, Colombia, Honduras, Puerto Rico, and the West Indies. Some of the field notes contain hand drawings of specimens, map sketches, and photographs.

Arrangement note

The arrangement of the collection is chronological and in its original form. The sections are bound in the order presented in this guide.
