Biographical Information

Clark Kerr was born in Reading, Pennsylvania on May 17, 1911 to Samuel W. and Caroline (Clark) Kerr. He married Catherine (Kitty) Spaulding in Los Angeles, California in 1934, and they had three children: Clark Edgar, Alexander William, and Caroline Mary. Kerr died in 2003, shortly after completing his memoirs, The Gold and the Blue: A Personal Memoir of the University of California, 1949-1967.

Kerr received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1932 from Swarthmore College, his Master of Arts degree in 1933 from Stanford University, and his PhD in economics in 1939 from the University of California at Berkeley (Berkeley). His first teaching position was at Antioch College from 1937 to 1938, and he went on to teach at International College in Elsinore, Denmark; Stanford University; the University of Washington; and Berkeley. From 1945 to 1952, he was the Director of the Institute of Industrial Relations at Berkeley. He became the first Chancellor at Berkeley in 1952, a post he held until 1958, when he became President of the University of California system. While president he lead the expansion of the University system by three new campuses and wrestled with growing student unrest and the Free Speech Movement. In 1967, under pressure from Governor Ronald Reagan, the Board of Regents fired him, he and resumed his teaching and research. He led the influential Carnegie Commission on Higher Education until 1973 and its successor the Carnegie Council on Policy Issues in Higher Education until 1979.*

Scope and Content of Collection

Clark Kerr Personal and Professional Papers documents Kerr's life as an educator, labor negotiator, and, most importantly, as chancellor of UC Berkeley and then president of the University of California system. The collection spans his professional career from the beginning of his work in labor relations to his last great work, his memoir, The Gold and the Blue: A Personal Memoir of the University of California, 1949-1967. The collection contains personal, professional, and family papers (including correspondence and papers of his parents and grandparents) of Clark Kerr, including University of California administrative records, writings, speeches, correspondence, awards, committee papers, and photographs.

Of especial interest for students of the sixties, might be Series 1, Administrative Files and Series 5, The Gold and the Blue. The Administrative Files reflect the most pressing concerns of Kerr's chancellorship and presidency. They include original memoranda and other official records that Kerr required to handle those issues. Included in Series 5 are background materials collected for writing his memoirs as well as candid comments by his peers on his manuscript as he wrote it. In some cases there is voluminous correspondence reflecting disagreements over the course of events described in controversial chapters.

Series 2 and 3, Professional Papers as Chancellor and as President reflect Kerr's more unofficial life during those periods. They include materials that reflect his on-going interest in labor relations and teaching and his involvement in professional organizations and committees and for the federal government. After he was fired in 1967, Kerr returned to teaching and took up positions with the Carnegie Commission. He was very active in higher education in more general ways, conducting research and chairing various national committees to study issues in higher education.

The collection is arranged into seven series: Administrative Files, 1940-1987; Professional Papers as Chancellor, 1940-1958; Professional Papers as President, 1958-1973; Personal Files Post-President, 1967-2003; The Gold and the Blue, 1942-2004; Honors and Awards, 1945-2003; and Personal and Family Papers, 1900s-2004

Series 1 Administrative Files 1940-1987

Arrangement

Arranged alphabetically

Scope and Content Note

These files appear to be official-with some original-university records used by Kerr in his capacity as UC Berkeley chancellor and as president of UC. He likely removed files from the Chancellor's office when he was appointed president and held on to those and records from the Office of the President after he left the administration in 1967. They include files on issues and problems with which he was particularly concerned or involved and provide a glimpse into the most important challenges of his chancellorship and presidency. When he was no longer president, he continued to take an interest in those issues and collect materials regarding them. Some may be duplicated in the Office of the President (CU-5) and Office of the Chancellor (CU-149) records from the time. They include reports, correspondence, and strategic planning documents. Certain folders in this series are restricted for seventy-five years past the date of their creation. These materials are listed here, but are not available for research. They are in Boxes 5 and 6.

Scope and Content Note

Kerr's Professional Papers as President document his activities mostly outside the office of president during his tenure. One subseries deals specifically with student issues, which was, of course, very central to his legacy as president. The materials in this series do not all fall chronologically exactly into the period of Kerr's presidency (1958-1967) because he continued to be interested in them after he was fired and kept the materials together. This series is arranged into sixteen subseries: Appointment Calendars; Carnegie Commission on Higher Education; Committees, Clubs, and Boards; Correspondence; Ford Foundation, Inauguration, Oral History; Publications and Writings; Radio and Television Appearances; Resignation, 1965; Social Events; Speeches; Sponsorship and Use of Name; Student Issues; Travel and Conferences; and Firing.

Scope and Content Note

This series documents the writing of Kerr's memoirs titled The Gold and the Blue. It includes book reviews, reader comments, correspondence, and background materials. The comments are among the most potentially interesting of the materials as they are the candid reactions of Kerr's contemporaries to drafts of his chapters along with his responses. Included in the background materials are the FBI's files regarding The University of California and Kerr and subject files that contain university documents on issues during Kerr's chancellorship and presidency. The Gold and the Blue was published in two volumes, but, for the most part, Kerr treated them as one monograph. This treatment is reflected in the arrangement of the series in one alphabetical run with little distinction as to volume number. Volume II was sometimes singled out by Kerr via his own folder title. Where that information was available, we have separated those files and included them in the alphabetical arrangement as "Volume II."
