Biography
Joseph Michel Carrier, Jr., was born on December 23, 1927, in Miami, Florida. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1945, but was still in boot camp when World War II ended, and was discharged early. After earning a BA in Geography from the University of Miami in 1950, he was recalled by the Marines for fourteen months and completed his tour as a sergeant. In 1952, he received an MA in Economics from Purdue University. The following year Carrier traveled on a Fulbright Scholarship to India, where he researched the economic effects of energy resource distribution in the northeastern region of the country. In 1954, he taught geography at the University of Miami. He then relocated to California where, after a brief stint at North American Aviation, he joined the Rand Corporation, for whom he worked from 1956 to 1968 as a research analyst on various projects. In 1968, upon returning to the United States after performing field research as a counterinsurgency specialist in Vietnam, Carrier was told of his pending dismissal for "economic reasons." In fact, his fellow employees in Saigon had reported a suspected homosexual affair with a Vietnamese Air Force officer to his superior in the Santa Monica office. At the time Rand considered homosexuals a security risk and subject to dismissal; however Carrier negotiated his departure from the company without admitting to the affair. His resignation provided Carrier the opportunity to return to school to study anthropology. Professor Duane Metzger of the University of California at Irvine was open to the concept of a graduate student researching male homosexuality, but advised Carrier to avoid mentioning homosexuality when applying to the graduate program. The UC Irvine program allowed one off-campus expert to serve on graduate advisory committees. Carrier sought out Evelyn Hooker, a UCLA professor and research authority on homosexuality. At Metzger's suggestion Carrier focused on homosexual behaviors in Mexico. He obtained a National Institute of Health two-year pre-doctoral fellowship and from the autumn of 1969 to the spring of 1971, conducted research in Guadalajara, observing and interviewing urban Mexican mestizos men who had sex with men. This was the first doctoral-level anthropological field research focused on homosexual behaviors. He received his Ph.D. the following year.
With no prospects for a position in sex research, Carrier briefly served as a staff officer at the National Academy of Science, where he researched the effects of herbicides utilized by American military forces in South Vietnam. From 1973 to 1987, he worked part-time as an evaluator of experimental law enforcement programs in the state of California. The part-time nature... of this work allowed Carrier to continue his research, and extend the scope of fieldwork into the Mexican states he passed through on his drive from California to Guadalajara. The rise of the AIDS epidemic underscored the importance of Carrier’s work, as his research on Mexican men who have sex with men provided public health officials with insights on this previously undocumented world. In the fall of 1987, Carrier joined the Orange County Health Agency AIDS Community Education Project (ACEP) to develop effective HIV/AIDS educational materials for the men of Mexican origin in Orange County. In a county biographical sketch published in 1991 he is described as the health agency’s Chief Social Scientist. He retired in 1992. In his final year with ACEP, Carrier conducted an ethnographic study of the sexual behaviors of men of Vietnamese origin in Orange County. He continues to study men of Mexican and Vietnamese origins in order to develop a greater understanding of their sexual behaviors that will allow service providers to create and implement more effective HIV/AIDS educational programs. In 1995, the culmination of more than twenty-five years of his research, De Los Otros: Intimacy and Homosexuality among Mexican Men was published.

Scope and Content
The collection is organized into five series: 1) Correspondence, 2) Writings, 3) Professional Activities, 4) Personal Papers, Computer Files, and Miscellanea, and 5) Reference Materials. The Correspondence Series comprises letters related to his research and professional activities. The Writings Series consists of materials relating to Carrier's published works, including his book, De Los Otros: Intimacy and Homosexuality among Mexican Men, and journal articles and reviews. The Professional Activities Series documents Carrier’s activities as peer reviewer, in particular for the Journal of Sex Research and the University of Chicago Press; as a member of the National Institutes of Health Mental Health AIDS Research Review Committee; as editor of the Anthropology Research Group on Homosexuality Newsletter (1979-1980); as a researcher compiling interviews, questionnaires, notes, and analyses of collected data relating to the sexual behaviors of Mexican men in Mexico and Latinos and Vietnamese in Southern California; and as a speaker at national conferences. The Personal Papers, Computer Files, and Miscellanea Series includes papers documenting his close friendship with Evelyn Hooker; photographs of his friends and travels; computer files of his research work, writings, and correspondence; notes and biographical materials; and documents regarding Carrier's travels to Southeast Asia. The Reference Materials Series comprises the bulk of the collection. The materials include copies of book chapters and journal articles, as well as typescripts, in particular on HIV/AIDS among Latino, ethnicity, gender, homosexuality, and Vietnamese sexuality. The papers also include materials acquired by Carrier during the late 1980s and early 1990s as a member of the Mental Health AIDS Research Review Committee (MHAD) which reviewed grant proposals submitted to the National Institutes of Health (NIH) Division of Research for review by the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, Mental Health Administration (ADAMHA) as well as miscellaneous reference materials from the Orange County Health Agency ACEP program. The materials also include newspaper and magazine clippings relating primarily to AIDS, gays, and Mexico.

Correspondence Series 1 1950-2008
Physical Description: 1.8 Linear Feet
Scope and Contents note
The files in the Correspondence Series are grouped into general correspondence, e-mail correspondence, and subject correspondence files. The general correspondence comprises primarily letters to Carrier, with Carrier’s response occasionally attached. The folders are in ascending chronological order, with the materials in each in reverse chronological order, following Carrier’s original arrangement. Undated materials are placed at the end of the group. The series includes two folders of printouts of e-mail correspondence, one of general correspondence, the other of correspondence relating to Carrier’s trip to Thailand in 2001. The subject files comprise several files created by Carrier. The Clark L. Taylor file includes correspondence concerning the organization of a workshop on homosexual research, as well as several of Taylor’s typescripts. José Moreno was one of several Carrier research subjects who continued to correspond with him, and the file includes correspondence and interview notes utilized by Carrier in his research. Carrier also created subject correspondence files on the UCLA Gender Clinic, an article on the Omani xanith, and a review essay on homosexuality by Robert Endelman. The Evelyn Hooker correspondence file was created in the course of processing the collection.

Physical Description: 30 folders [1.6 linear feet]

Scope and Contents note

The Research Subseries comprises Carrier's research materials on the sexual behaviors of Mexican men in Mexico and Latinos and Vietnamese in Southern California. They are arranged chronologically, from Carrier’s proposals, through his interview notes and completed respondent questionnaires, to his analysis of the collected data. The bulk of the series consists of Carrier’s original notes and research in Guadalajara in 1968-1971. Carrier maintained contact with several respondents, and correspondence with these individuals will be found in the Correspondence Series. The series also includes materials concerning the gay liberation organization in Guadalajara, Grupo de Orgullo Homosexual de Liberación (GOHL).
