Creator: Southern California AIDS Social Policy Archive

Collection Size: 164 boxes + 7 oversize boxes + 1 shoebox (210.4 linear feet).

Repository: ONE National Gay and Lesbian Archives.
Los Angeles, California 90007

Abstract: Materials relating to the AIDS epidemic, with special emphasis on Los Angeles County. The collection includes records of the various Los Angeles City and County government departments, agencies, and task forces involved in the fight against AIDS, in particular the Los Angeles County AIDS Programs office. The majority of the records relates to HIV/AIDS counseling and testing; community education; the Long Beach Early Intervention Network (EIN) Project; funding through the Centers for Disease Control and under the Ryan White CARE Act of 1990; projects undertaken by private agencies under contract to Los Angeles County; and the work of various commissions and task forces. Additional records of the California State Office of AIDS and the Centers for Disease Control and its subsidiary institutes document the response of the state and Federal governments. The collection also contains materials created by Los Angeles County, California, and national organizations and institutions involved in AIDS research, education, awareness, and community support; a wide variety of materials created by or about persons affected by AIDS; geographic files containing information on AIDS elsewhere in the United States and the world; subject files; a substantial number of English- and Spanish-language AIDS-related newsletters; graphic materials including photographs and posters; ephemera and memorabilia; and a large number of newspaper clippings.

Preferred Citation

Acquisition Information

Created in 1985.

Processing Information

Processing this collection has been funded by a generous grant from the National Historical Publications and Records Commission.

Administrative History

The AIDS History Project Collection was formed in the Fall of 1985 by Jim Kepner, as part of his International Gay and Lesbian Archives (IGLA), to document the history of the AIDS epidemic, in particular in Southern California. It consisted of organizational and subject files. Kepner formed and augmented the collection by removing AIDS-related materials from organizational and personal papers in the IGLA collections. The earliest project coordinator was Olaf Odegaard, succeeded in turn by David Grossman and Jack Carrel, who later worked for the Los Angeles Free Clinic and the Los Angeles County Sexually Transmitted Disease Program. The size of the collection was greatly increased in 2001/2002 by the acquisition of the Southern California AIDS Social Policy Archive, which had been formed at the University of Southern California in 1995 to preserve and make accessible pertinent private papers of David Johnson, the first Los Angeles City AIDS Coordinator, Dr. Michael Gottlieb, and Dr. Joel Weisman, materials from local AIDS activist groups, and papers of the Los Angeles City Attorney AIDS/HIV Discrimination Unit.

Scope and Content of Collection

This collection comprises reports, correspondence, memoranda, statistics, bibliographies, conference proceedings, minutes, notes, journal articles, subject files, brochures, posters, flyers, photographs, news clippings, ephemera, memorabilia, as well as audiovisual, fundraising, publicity and other materials relating to the AIDS epidemic in Los Angeles County, the state of California, and the United States. The core of the collection consists of materials created by the various Los Angeles City and County government departments, agencies, and task forces involved in the fight against AIDS, in particular the Los Angeles County AIDS Programs office. The majority of the records relates to HIV/AIDS counseling and testing; community education; the Long Beach Early Intervention Network (EIN) Project; funding through the Centers for Disease Control and under the Ryan White CARE Act of 1990; projects undertaken by private agencies under contract to Los Angeles County; and the work of various commissions and task forces. Additional records of various California State government departments, agencies, and task forces, in particular the California State Office of AIDS, document the state's response to the AIDS epidemic. The collection includes records of Federal agencies, in particular the Centers for Disease Control and its subsidiary, the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, which address HIV/AIDS testing, counseling, and prevention. The collection also contains extensive materials created by Los Angeles County, California, and national organizations and institutions involved in AIDS research, education, awareness, and community support; geographic files containing information on AIDS elsewhere in the United States and the world; extensive subject files; a large number of English- and Spanish-language AIDS-related newsletters; graphic materials including photographs and posters; ephemera, including buttons and safe-sex condom packets; and a large number of newspaper clippings.

Processing note: because many of the folders were re-arranged and re-foldered before the collection was processed it has not always been possible to determine their original context. They have consequently been arranged by originating or receiving agency, date, or subject, as considered most appropriate. When the integrity of a folder appears intact and its creator can be identified, the name of the creator is noted on the folder and in this document.

   Series Scope and Content
   This series comprises reports, correspondence, statistics, bibliographies, brochures, flyers, publicity and other materials created by Los Angeles City and County government agencies in response to the AIDS epidemic, with additional materials created by California State and Federal Government agencies that place the local government response to AIDS within the context of the statewide and national response. The series is divided into three subseries: (1) Los Angeles, (2) California, and (3) United States.
Box 1 : 5-26

Physical Description: 20 boxes (25 linear feet).

Subseries Scope and Content
This series comprises reports, correspondence, statistics, bibliographies, brochures, flyers, publicity and other materials created by the various Los Angeles City and County government departments, agencies, and task forces involved in the fight against AIDS. The bulk of the subseries consists of records of the Los Angeles County AIDS Programs office; the significant number of records from the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health derive from the files of Bryan Mershon, who later moved to AIDS Programs. The majority of the records relates to HIV/AIDS counseling and testing; community education; the Long Beach Early Intervention Network (EIN) Project; funding, in particular through the Centers for Disease Control and under the Ryan White CARE Act of 1990; projects undertaken by private agencies under contract to Los Angeles County; and the work of various commissions and task forces, in particular the Los Angeles County Commissions on AIDS and on HIV Health Services and the HIV Counseling, Testing, Referral, and Partner Notification (CTRPN) Task Forces. The subseries also contains an extensive collection of press releases for the period 1983-1994 relating to AIDS from the office of Los Angeles County Supervisor Ed Edelman. The records are arranged alphabetically by government agency.

Subseries Scope and Content
This series comprises reports, correspondence, statistics, bibliographies, brochures, flyers, publicity and other materials created by the various California State government departments, agencies, and task forces involved in the fight against AIDS. The bulk of the subseries consists of records of the California State Office of AIDS and its predecessors. Much of the materials for the period through 1986 derives from the files of Ken Brock, first coordinator of what later became the Office of AIDS, and of AIDS activist Bruce B. Decker. The records are arranged alphabetically by government agency.

<td>This series comprises reports, correspondence, bibliographies, brochures, flyers, publicity and other materials created by United States Government agencies involved in the fight against AIDS. A significant portion of the materials derives from the Centers for Disease Control and its subsidiary institutions, in particular the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases. While the records address a wide variety of topics, the bulk of them relates to HIV/AIDS testing, counseling, and prevention. The materials are arranged alphabetically by government agency.</td>

Series Scope and Content
This series comprises materials documenting the AIDS epidemic arranged geographically. The series is constructed from geographic subject files created in the 1980s and early 1990s for Jim Kepner's AIDS History Project, supplemented by a small number of subject files from the Southern California AIDS Social Policy Archive which could not be placed in Series 2. The contents of the files are unsorted and consist primarily of reports, brochures, flyers, news releases, and other materials produced by local AIDS organizations, which properly belong in Series 3. Additional materials include news clippings, journal articles, and records of state and local government agencies.

Physical Description: 3 boxes (3.75 linear feet).

Subseries Scope and Content
This subseries comprises materials documenting the AIDS epidemic within the state of California. The bulk of the subseries consists of subject files, containing reports, brochures, flyers, news releases, and other materials produced by local AIDS organizations, which supplement the materials in Series 3. Other materials include documents relating to AIDS propositions and initiatives, in particular Proposition 64 (1986), news clippings, journal articles, and records of county and city government agencies. The records of the Long Beach Department of Health and Human Services, and the subject files relating to the city and county of Los Angeles supplement the materials in Series 2. The subseries is arranged alphabetically by locality.

Series Scope and Content

This series consists of subject files created for the AIDS History Project by Jim Kepner and his successors, and of subject files from the office files of Ken Brock, Jack Carrel, Lee Mentley, Bryan Mershon, and others employed by Los Angeles area and California state AIDS agencies. The files are arranged alphabetically. While formatting has been standardized, no attempt has been made to merge files on the same subject but of different provenance. Where the provenance of a particular file is known the name of the originator is noted on the folder.

Series Scope and Content
This series consists of newsletters and other periodical publications relating to AIDS. Most of the materials are publications of local, regional, and national organizations, institutions, and government agencies specifically concerned with the treatment of AIDS. Other materials include special AIDS-related issues of mainstream and GLBT periodical publications. While most of the materials were published in the United States, the series includes a number of foreign publications, in particular Canadian and German.
