Publication Rights
The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement. This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgement, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.

Acquisition Information Photographs were transferred to History San Jose in 1996 from the City of Palo Alto. Portions of the original collection were also transferred to other institutions.
Biography/Administrative History
The Peninsula-Times Tribune was organized in April 1979 from a merger of the Palo Alto Times and the Redwood City Tribune, both owned by the parent company Peninsula Newspapers Incorporated. The paper ceased publishing in 1993.
Scope and Content of Collection
The collection consists of original prints taken by staff and freelance photographers for the Peninsula-Times Tribune, many of which include caption and photo credit information. They are organized in original folders by subject, and have been cataloged at item level. The bulk of the images were taken in the late 1970s through early 1991, though there are historic prints from other sources included.
