Publication Rights

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement. This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgement, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.

Scope and Content of Collection

Aerial photographs of road intersections and neighborhoods in San Jose, California, taken by the San Jose Planning Commission. Approximately 300 of the photographs are 3" x 5" black and white, dating between 1967-1968. The remainder of the photographs are 4" x 6" color prints, taken circa 1977. An index to 250 of the black and white photographs was included with the donation; many of the color photographs have been labeled at the bottom.
