Abstract: In 1935, Palmer was hired as the general sales agent for Griffith Company, which owned much of Lido Isle. Palmer and his associates eventually founded Newport Balboa Savings & Loan Association in 1936 as a means of helping home buyers to obtain financing. This collection includes maps, advertisements, official documents, and photographic prints and negatives. The subject of materials include real estate and banking in the city of Newport Beach, California and specifically in Lido Isle. The collection includes maps and advertisements promoting the affordability and luxury of the Lido Isle subdivision. A majority of the advertisements include the Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Association, a company which specialized in financing homes on Lido Isle. The photographs in this collection feature images of real estate in Southern California and many images of the construction of Newport Balboa Saving and Loan’s headquarters, employees and company events.

Biography/Administrative History
Paul Arthur Palmer was born on June 26, 1893 in San Francisco, CA. He began a career in real estate in 1920. He worked in the firm responsible for developing Belmont Shores in Long Beach, and later became the sales manager of the Long Beach office. After the real estate in Long Beach was completely sold, Paul Palmer established his own real estate offices in Pasadena, Hollywood, Glendale, and downtown Los Angeles. In 1935, Palmer obtained the exclusive sales contract from the Griffith Company for Lido Isle, a neighborhood in Newport Beach, California. Because of the lack of local financial institutions willing to extend mortgages, Palmer and five other businessmen founded Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Association. Palmer served as manager, president, and then chairman of the board for the Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Association which grew to serve the greater Orange Coast area. Palmer died April 17, 1979. Agnes Bloomquist was most notable for her accomplishments as a realtor and later president of the Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Association in Newport Beach, California. From the mid-1930s Bloomquist worked alongside Paul A. Palmer, the first president of the Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Association. Bloomquist eventually was named president of the Association. She was also the president of Lido Insurance Agency, the president of Lido Isle Properties, and the president of the Newport Beach United Fund. In 1963, the Los Angeles Times, named Agnes Bloomquist Woman of the Year.

Scope and Content Note
The series consists of photographic negatives taken for Newport Beach area businessman P.A. Palmer by Beckner Photo Service of Balboa Island. The images document some of Palmer’s business activities and interests conducted through his real estate offices and his Newport Balboa Savings and Loan. The images, most of which date from the 1950s, provide a visual record of the construction of the Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Building, employee parties and celebrations, and different homes on Lido Isle sold by Palmer’s real estate business. There are also some portraits in the collection of various individuals, some of whom were associated with Palmer and his business interests, and others who were local residents.

Some of the earliest photographs in the group, from 1941-1946, are not related to Newport Beach or Lido Isle at all but rather are of various scenes in and around Yosemite National Park and of a few other Southern California locations, including UCLA, Mount Baldy, and Redlands.

One folder of documents accompanies the three boxes of negatives. It contains notes, receipts, purchase orders, and other ephemeral items from 1953-1972.
