San Francisco Panorama, 1851 DAG 11C

Marie Silva
California Historical Society
2018 June 26
678 Mission Street
San Francisco, CA 94105
reference@calhist.org
URL: http://californiastatehistoricalsociety.org/
Abstract: Seven-part panoramic view of the San Francisco Bay extending from Happy Valley to Rincon Point, taken in the spring of 1851 by an unknown photographer from 1st and Howard Streets.

Conditions Governing Access
Access is restricted due to the daguerreotypes’ fragility. Permission of photo archivist required for access.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Existence and Location of Copies
Copy prints are housed in the San Francisco Streets Photography Collection (PC-SF-Streets) under San Francisco General Views, 1851.

General
Each panel consists of a whole-plate daguerreotype measuring 19 x 24 cm. Plates 1-6 are framed together.

Preferred Citation
[Identification of item]; San Francisco Panorama, 1851 spring, DAG 11C; California Historical Society.

Scope and Contents
Seven-part panoramic view of the San Francisco Bay extending from Happy Valley to Rincon Point, taken in the spring of 1851 by an unknown photographer from 1st and Howard Streets. Businesses and other features captured include: Portsmouth Plaza, Oriental Hotel, Happy Valley Market, Happy Valley Bakery, Ocean House, Cottage Content, People’s Market, Vulcan Foundry, Pacific Iron Works, Sutter House, the steamer C. M. Weber, abandoned ships, a laundry woman, and shipbuilding works.

Conditions Governing Use
Materials in this collection, which were created in 1851, are in the public domain of the United States. Permission to publish or reproduce is not required.

Subjects and Indexing Terms
San Francisco (Calif.) -- Pictorial works
San Francisco Bay (Calif.) -- Pictorial works
Panoramic photographs
Daguerreotypes