Acquisition Information

Gift of Arthur O'Connell, probably 1972. Accession number: 1995.8.

Processing Information

Kathryn Jigursky, at unknown date, processed the Arthur O'Connell Papers. In 2014, Alvaro González finished processing them. He and Clay Stalls created the EAD collection guide that same year.

Collection Description

The Arthur J. O'Connell collection includes records Arthur O'Connell amassed between 1929 and his death in May of 1981. The source of this material is unknown, although it probably came from him. The exact date this material was donated is also unknown, but based on other records, 1972 is the most plausible date. The records include: photographs, scripts, plaques, correspondence, contracts, financial records, programs, playbills, periodicals, memoranda, agendas and articles. This collection focuses on O'Connell's acting career, and O'Connell's parts in movies, television and theatre are well-documented by the scripts and photographs in the collection. Other topics include: the American National Theatre and Assembly, which O'Connell was President of the Southern California Chapter in 1965 and 1966; O'Connell's work with the USO providing entertainment for troops during the Vietnam war; some personal and professional friendships; and theatre and movie playbills collected by O'Connell from 1936-1969.

An attempt was made to maintain original order wherever feasible. This original order involved the numbering of documents, and documents were filed in ascending numerical order, although this sometimes resulted in material that was not included in this organization. These unnumbered documents were placed at the end of a series.

Arthur O'Connell Biography

A native New Yorker, Arthur O'Connell (1908-1981) acted on both the stage, including the Mercury Theater of Orson Welles, and the screen. In the latter venue, he became a capable and well-known character actor and earned two Academy Award nominations, one for "Picnic" (1956), the other for "Anatomy of a Murder" (1959), nominations documented the materials in this collection (see Series 1).

Series Description

This series consists of material such as gate passes, payment stubs, loan papers, deposit receipts, balance sheets, hotel receipts, bills from answering services, cleaners, liquor stores, pharmacies, and life insurance premiums.

The material in this series is organized in chronological order. Where numerous documents have been stapled together, they have been filed under the date closest to the top of the pile. Those documents without dates have been gathered together and filed at the beginning of this series.

There is a collection of documents in the American National Theatre and Assembly series that appear to have been misfiled and really belong with O'Connell's financial records, File 5, no. 8.
