Series 1. Subseries A. Weapons Bills. 1987-1994

Physical Description: 9 archival document boxes.

Subseries Description

This subseries of the Legislation Series contains the materials concerning David Roberti's landmark gun control legislation from the late 1980s and early 1990s. Roberti was the first California legislator to introduce successfully significant legislation (SB 292) that controlled the ownership of certain types of semi-automatic weapons. Besides Roberti's senate bill SB 292, this subseries also contains material on its companion assembly bill, AB 357; both were passed in 1989. (For additional material on AB 357, consult the Legislation Series of the Mike Roos Papers, CSLA-3.) David Roberti also steered through the California legislature SB 1795 (1988) and SB 292 (1993) restricting the reproduction and use of gun replicas. The SB 292 passed in 1993 is not the same bill as SB 292 passed in 1989 concerning assault weapons.

This subseries consists of memoranda and correspondence on the efforts to pass these bills; legislative materials such as roll call cards, and copies and annotated drafts of bills; studies and reports on gun control; material on opposition to the bills, principally from the National Rifle Association; and newspaper clippings. Correspondents of note include John Van de Kamp and George Deukmajian. Important pro- and anti-gun registration organizations found in this collection include the Gun Owners of California, Handgun Control, and the National Rifle Association. The majority of materials in this collection are photocopies. In this subseries, the original folder titles have been retained for the most part.

Series 3. The Office of Asian and Pacific Islander Affairs (OAPIA). 1981-1994

Physical Description: 45 archival document boxes (18.75 linear feet).

Series Description

Reacting to a lack of Asian-American representation in the State Legislature, David Roberti announced on January 29, 1987, the establishment of the Office of Asian and Pacific Affairs, which later became the Office of Asian and Pacific Islander Affairs (OAPIA). According to Roberti, the Office served "to provide the Asian constituency a direct means to ensure that their (sic) views are known on legislation and policies that affect their (sic) political, economic and social interests." Another function of the OAPIA was "to assist other Senators in developing stronger relations with Asian organizations and leaders in their districts." The OAPIA encouraged the political appointments of Asian-Americans and monitored their involvement in local, state, and federal politics. Because of budget cuts, the OAPIA was dismantled.

Subjects of interest in this series of the Roberti Papers include the University of California admissions policy, affirmative action, discrimination against Asians in education and in employment opportunities, licensure for foreign trained optometrists, designation of Asian and Pacific Islanders on the 1990 census form, demographic information documenting the rise in California's Asian population, the Kennedy/Simpson Immigration Bill and its restriction of Asian immigrants, the Refugee Targeted Assistance Project, hate crimes and violent acts against Asians, fair representation for Asians during reapportionment, voter registration in the Asian community, redress for WWII internment, Pacific rim trade, business opportunities for Asian small businesses, and the controversy surrounding Dan Lungren, including his position on Asian issues, nomination as State Treasurer, and the court battle to assume the position.

The OAPIA series has been divided into three sub-series: Subject Files, Correspondence, and Newspaper Clippings. The dates for this series are 1981-1994, with the majority of material falling in the period from 1987 to 1993.

Series 3. Subseries A The Office of Asian and Pacific Islander Affairs (OAPIA): Subject Files. 1981-1994

Physical Description: 42.5 archival document boxes (17.75 linear feet).

Subseries Description

As closely as possible, the arrangement of this subseries adheres to the original order imposed on the material by its originators. Subject Files are arranged alphabetically by the initial letter of the topic, and then, where appropriate, divided into subcategories of the topic. For example, a folder with material on Asian entrepreneurs in business would be filed under the subject of business, and then under Asian entrepreneurs. This subseries spans the year 1981-1994, with the bulk dates 1987-1993.

Searches for materials in this series may be conducted in several different ways. For instance, not all organizations are listed under the subject heading "Ethnic Groups / Organizations." An organization closely associated or concerned with a particular issue will often be filed under that subject, as will committees created to treat that issue. For example, the Asian Pacific Women's Network is found under the heading "Asian Network", the New California Coalition (exclusively concerned with immigration) is found under the subject heading "Immigration", and the Asian Bar Association and other legal organizations are filed under "Justice."

The "Ethnic Groups/Organizations" subject heading also covers matters of concern to specific ethnic groups. For example, files about issues such as Filipino optometrists' licensing and the Vietnamese fishermen's gill net controversy will be found under this subject heading.

Names of individuals are usually found under subject headings. A person involved in political life would be listed under "Asians in Politics", or under "Federal", if involved in federal politics. Politician Dan Lungren has his own subject heading, under "L."

Although there is a "Legislation" subject heading, legislation files can also be found under other subject headings. Legislation involved many issues, from immigration, to Filipino optometrists' licensing, to human rights. Federal legislation may be found under the heading "Federal". Legislative material is often filed with the rest of the holdings under a subject file and may not have a separate file. Any issues that are of exclusive interest to the federal government, such as international relations, can be located under the heading "Federal."

Types of material in this subseries include newsletters, journals, copies of correspondence, memoranda, invitations, copies of drafts and the final form of legislation, programs, petitions, leaflets, pamphlets, background reading material generated by conferences, newspaper and magazine clippings, papers, and reports from commissions and individuals, and Senate transcripts. The OAPIA staff annotated some material.

Series 5. Ward Valley (1984-1994). 1980-1994

Physical Description: 21 archival document boxes (6.25 linear feet).

Series Description

This series consists of David Roberti's records pertaining to the proposed low-level radioactive waste facility in Ward Valley, located 22 miles west of Needles, California in the Mojave Desert. Ward Valley was to be the location for the first low-level radioactive waste facility to be built in America since 1971. However, David Roberti, Senator Barbara Boxer, environmental groups, and Colorado River Indian Tribes brought to public attention the potentially malign environmental impact on the desert tortoise and on the Colorado River, only 20 miles from the proposed waste site. This political pressure resulted in lawsuits and public hearings to determine the risks that the project presented. Ultimately, both the state and federal governments decided to drop plans for building the waste facility. The holdings in this series consist of correspondence, court documents, newspaper clippings, press releases, and materials related to ancillary topics or lawsuits. All materials are photocopies; the bulk of the material, in its original form, dates from 1993 and 1994.

Series Description

This series consists of David Roberti's records of legislative issues. Court documents, whether related to implementation of propositions or to the activities of David Roberti himself, make up approximately half of the series. Prominent issues in this series include the reapportionment of Senate districts for California, state propositions, the controversial proposal to construct a prison in East Los Angeles, and Roberti's opposition to, and victory over, Governor Deukmejian's attempted appointment of Dan Lungren to the State Treasurer's office. Other items of interest are the Final Bill Records of David Roberti Box (Box 16, Folders 2-3) and his file on the Jewry of Soviet Union (Box 10, Folder 17). The holdings in this series consist of correspondence, court documents, newspaper clippings, press releases, and materials related to lawsuits.
