Historical note
The Strategic Planning Committee was the body originally responsible for the creation of Pepperdine University's strategic plan. Today, the committee no longer exists and the responsibility of adopting university wide strategic plans is up to the Board of Regents.

Scope and Content
The collection includes correspondence, financial reports, memoranda, and other materials related to the universities' strategic planning. Topics include: application of Pepperdine ideals, student development, plans of action for the various Pepperdine schools, international programs, and the university libraries. The documents are print and originals, and range in date from 1977-1997.

Processing Information note
The collection was arranged and described by Lindsey Gant, Catie Golitzin and Katie Richardson in April 2013.

Related Archival Materials
University strategic planning materials might also be found in the Pepperdine University Board of Regents Records collection number 0069.
