Arrangement
The Don Booth Korean War Correspondence are housed in two blue 6.5"x15"x10" boxes. Ten legal folders contain the letters, which are arranged chronologically. Letters of an unknown date and miscellaneous material is collected in the back of the last folder.

Scope and Contents
This collection contains approximately 275 war correspondence from Donald R. Booth to his younger brother Bob and his parents, Maude and Floyd Booth from 1950 to 1953. Booth joined the United States Marine Corps at the beginning of the Korean War and served most of his enlistment at Camp Pendleton, California. Don Booth began teaching at Chapman University in 1959 as a professor of business and economics before retiring in 2013.
