Abstract: One letter written and signed "E.G." from Flogny, France, Friday February 22, 1919.
Location note: Leatherby Libraries
Scope and Contents note
One letter written Friday, February 22, 1919 from Flogny, France by "E.G." [refers to himself as "Gilliam" on page 6] to his mother, father and sister. In the letter, he is cynical about the situation in Europe and in America. He mentions that no one knows when they will be going home even though the war has been over for four months. He also expresses dismay that people back home are living in increasing comfort while the two million men still abroad don't have basic necessities, and not to believe anything read in the papers about the A.E.F.
