Identifier/Call Number: MSS.2018.06.29
Physical Description: 6 boxes (6 linear feet)
Date (inclusive): 1955-1995

Abstract: This collection consists of papers, publications, slides, negatives, and prints from SJSC and SJSU's Instructional Television Program. Subjects include the various classes taught at the University, as well as the creation and implementation of the pilot instructional television program.

Scope and Contents
This collection consists of papers, publications, graphics, and photographic imagery from the University's Instructional Television Pilot Program. The content of Series I consists of paperwork related to the day to day operations of the ITV Studio, as well as information about the potential creation of a CSU campus at Fort Ord. The content of Series II consists mainly of publications about creating and maintaining an ITV program. The content of Series III consists of photographic prints of ITV programs devoted to various departments on campus; off campus ITV programs; images of technical equipment in action; and images of the construction and founding of the Monterey County CSU campus. The content of Series IV consists of photographic negatives of the ITV program in action, on campus; ITV program illustrated graphics, and images from ITV conferences. The content of Series V consists of overhead projector slides used as teaching aids in classes; illustrated graphics used for ITV programs, and images of Buckminster Fuller's time on campus as a Scholar-in-Residence. The content of Series VI consists of large format mounted imagery used during the recording of ITV programs.

The majority of the contents of the collection are in original order, as we received it from the department. Items of special interest include negatives and prints of writer, comedian, and civil rights activist Dick Gregory being interviewed on campus, as well as slides of architect and inventor Buckminster Fuller's time as a Scholar-in-Residence.

Arrangement
This collection is organized into six series, by content type: Series I: Papers; Series II: Publications; Series III: Prints; Series IV: Negatives; Series V: Slides; and Series VI: Large Mounted Graphics

Organizational History
In 1857 the San Francisco Board of Education established Minns' Evening Normal School for current and prospective teachers in the city. Named after its principal, George W. Minns, the institution was formally established as the first California State Normal School by the State Legislature in 1862. A decade later, the Legislature voted to move the Normal School to San José, and the school relocated to its new home on Washington Square prior to the fall term of 1872. After a fire destroyed the Normal School building in 1880, the Legislature authorized $200,000 to construct a new building on the same site. Completed in 1881, the building was commonly referred to as the Second State Normal School. After several names and curriculum changes, Minns' Normal school is now San José State University, offering more than 134 bachelor's and master's degrees with 110 concentrations, and is recognized as one of the top public universities granting such degrees in the West. San Jose State started a pilot school in the use of instructional television in 1955. In 1957, the state legislature officially allowed for the program in its budget. Projects were established in order to provide students the opportunity to observe educational practices in both elementary and high school education to better prepare themselves to become teachers. Another key use of the instructional television equipment was to project the instructor's materials and activities in a large format so the students could view them better. For example, the science classes were able to view the contents of microscopes as a class. Another use allowed the instructor to proctor exams without needing to physically oversee them. Classes were also offered via local television station KNTV, enabling students to take a class from the comfort of their own home, pre-dating SJSU's online program. The ITV program remained in use by SJSU until the late 1970s.

Series VI: Large Mounted Graphics

Scope and Contents
Series VI contains materials that were used during the recording of ITV programs. The images are mounted on large format boards. In addition, this series contains a box of metal and glass slides of graphics used for ITV programs, and a series of mounted photos of employees and faculty of Monterey County colleges.

Arrangement
Materials in this series are arranged by size.
