Organizational History
In 1857 the San Francisco Board of Education established Minns' Evening Normal School for current and prospective teachers in the city. Named after its principal, George W. Minns, the institution was formally established as the first California State Normal School by the State Legislature in 1862. A decade later, the Legislature voted to move the Normal School to San José, and the school relocated to its new home on Washington Square prior to the fall term of 1872. After a fire destroyed the Normal School building in 1880, the Legislature authorized $200,000 to construct a new building on the same site. Completed in 1881, the building was commonly referred to as the Second State Normal School. After several names and curriculum changes, Minns' Normal School is now San José State University, offering more than 134 bachelor's and master's degrees with 110 concentrations, and is recognized as one of the top public universities granting such degrees in the West.

San José State University's Student Services are an integral part of university life, providing assistance in a variety of areas including health care, housing assistance, transportation, career and employment support, tutorial aid, childcare and much more. In particular, the Career Planning and Placement Center promotes the professional development of SJSU students by providing the tools to guide them in making career-planning decisions and marketing their skills to employers. The SJSU Disability Resource Center (DRC) is another important student resource. Originally known as the Office of Disabled Students (DSO), the DRC was created in 1972 as a pilot program within the California State University (CSU) system to support the needs of disabled students. Providing accommodations to disabled students while preserving the fundamental nature of their academic programs and interests, the DRC has grown from an initial membership of 64 students to nearly 1,000 students in 2010.
