Biographical / Historical
The California State Railroad Museum Corporate Miscellany Collection is a collection of miscellaneous material assembled by the California State Railroad Museum Library & Archives' staff since 1981. The purpose for the collection is to gather loose items relevant to specific corporations, and to have them accessible for researchers interested in a particular railroad. It may serve as a supplementary collection of research material in association with a specific corporate collection found in the California State Railroad Museum Library & Archives. In addition, it may be the only subject file(s) relevant to a railroad whose official records are not in the repository.
Items have been accrued over the years through several donations and transfers, then filed into subjects in alphabetical order pertaining to individual railroads. Over the years, some items have been separated and cataloged individually.

Scope and Contents
The California State Railroad Museum Corporate Miscellany Collection is an assembled collection of miscellaneous material pertaining to various railroads and railroad-related companies. As a whole, the collection contains documents, publications, and ephemera.
Conditions Governing Use

Series 4: Railroads (A-Z) undated

Scope and Contents

Series 4 consists of an assembled collection of miscellaneous material related to various railroads and railroad-related companies (dates unknown).

The material in most cases was generated by a railroad for public relations, business, employee, safety, or legal purposes. Some items are not originals (i.e. photocopies), and the content is not always complete due to it being compiled of multiple small donations and not the official records of the company.

Each railroad contains at least one file folder consisting of miscellaneous material regarding the company. If there are multiple folders, they are usually arranged by subject in alphabetical order.
