Scope and Content of Collection

The collection of Lewis Engman documents his activities and responsibilities as a White House Staff Member of the Office of Consumer Affairs, Assistant Director of the Domestic Council and Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. His principal areas of concern were tax policy, housing, school finance and trade regulation. The Engman collection consists of two series, a Subject File Series and a Director's Review Series. The majority of the collection is the Subject File Series which documents Lewis Engman's activities, correspondence and involvement in policy issues relating to the Administrative Conference of the U.S., banking, consumerism, housing and the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and taxation pertaining to school finance. This series is indexed alphabetically. The Director's Review Series is a small series of budget reports for fiscal years 1973 and 1974 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Department of Justice, Department of Commerce, and the Department of Treasury, prepared for the Director's Reviews. This series is indexed in chronological order. Other holdings in the Nixon Presidential Materials relating to the subject contents of Lewis Engman's collection include the White House Subject Files FG 6-15 (Domestic Council), FG 24 (HUD), HS (Housing), TA (Trade), and the Special Files of John D. Ehrlichman in his capacity as the Executive Director of the Domestic Council on President Nixon's Staff, and Egil Krogh as Assistant Director of the Domestic Council.
