Scope and Content of Collection
The Randy Schell papers contain materials related to the grassroots effort to develop a lesbian and gay community center in 1979 and 1980, and to Schell’s work against ant-gay violence as a Senior Client Advocate for the Community United Against Violence (CUAV). Schell (1948-1996) was a co-founder of CUAV and an activist for victim’s rights. The collection includes correspondence; project and grant proposals for the community center; materials related to community activist Adrienne Fuzee and the Harvey Milk Neighborhood Center, the non-profit organized to develop and implement a community center; materials related to the San Francisco Department of Public Health’s Victim Services Advisory Committee; materials related to the Task Force on Gay & Lesbian Issues for the Commission on Social Justice of the Archdiocese of San Francisco; anti-gay violence statements, articles and papers written by Schell, including his “CUAV” column in the “Bay Area Reporter”; subject files; and awards, commendations, proclamations and resolutions. The bulk of the papers cover the years 1978-1989.
