Biographical/Historical Note
Richard J. Whalen, born in New York City in 1935, graduated with honors in English and Political Science from Queens College in 1957. He joined the Richmond (VA) News Leader and rose from the rewrite desk to the associate editorship under James Jackson Kilpatrick in two years. In 1960, Whalen returned to New York as a contributing editor on Time magazine, writing national affairs, then did a brief stint at the Wall Street Journal as an editorial writer. In 1963, he returned to Time, Inc., becoming a senior writer and member of the board of editors on Fortune magazine.
During his tenure at Fortune, Whalen wrote The Founding Father: The Story of Joseph P. Kennedy. His critically acclaimed book was on the New York Times' bestseller list for more than a year and was the runner-up for both the 1964 Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award. Still in print (fourth edition 1993), it is the foundation of two generations of Kennedy scholarship. In 1965, he authored another award-winning book on New York’s endangered architectural heritage, A City Destroying Itself: An Angry View of New York.
In 1967-69, Whalen was writer-in-residence at Georgetown University's Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, D.C. and also served as a special assistant in Richard M. Nixon's successful 1968 presidential campaign. That same year, he became a member of the prestigious Cosmos Club. He served as senior consultant to Secretary of State William Rogers in 1969-71, and then left government to launch his own political and economic intelligence and consulting firm, WIRES, Ltd., which he ran successfully for more than two decades. In 1972, Whalen wrote a prophetic study of the Nixon presidency, Catch the Falling Flag: A Republican's Challenge to His Party, published a month before the Watergate break-in. In 1975, he wrote a book of collected political essays, Taking Sides: A Personal View of America from Kennedy to Nixon to Kennedy.
An effective television personality, Whalen has been a frequent guest on CNN's Crossfire. He has also been featured in the concluding segment of PBS's three-part documentary The Irish in America (1999) and the History channel's two-hour special Nixon: The Arrogance of Power (2000).
Whalen is a member of New York’s Century Association and the Council on Foreign Relations. He is married to the former Joan Marie Giuffre, director of Joan Whalen Fine Art, New York. He has three grown children and four grandchildren.

Scope and Content of Collection

The 2015 incremental materials consist primarily of personal records and the beginnings of an informational news service written by Richard Whalen. The Hideshi Maki and the News Service Reports series includes founding documentation and copies of the news service, originally unnamed, called WIRES in 1981, renamed The Whalen Report in 1996 and The Big Picture in 2002. Hideshi Maki was a former foreign service officer who started an informal information service in Japan, which circulated privately among private corporate clients such as Toyota, Toshiba, Mitsui Mitsubishi and several major banks. Richard Whalen began writing twice-weekly analysis of political and economic relations and how they relate to Japanese business concerns.

Box/Folder 32 : 3 “College Papers” -- containing case briefs, “A Silent Generation: An Essay in Social Criticism” - “What Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. called the vital center, we call the free man. He is the core and foundation of western civilization. In our century, this core has shriveled and the foundation has cracked, under the assaults of the Total State. The enfeebling darkness of collectivism has produced spiritual misery and mediocrity, stunted art and twisted literature. Either this darkness shall pass away, or America - the last promise of freedom in this world - shall succumb, its ultimate vision unrealized.” (1954) “Crucial Moment for American Education” in U.S.A. Magazine (6/7/57). “McCarthyism Revisied - Survey Discredits Academic Freedom Plaunts” Human Events (1959). Notes on academic freedom. Mock political convention Queens College April 1956.
