Biographical Note
George Fox Mott was an American management and international affairs consultant. He held a number of positions as a writer and lecturer, and worked in the fields of socio-political history, mass media communications, and technological management science.
Mott was born in 1907 in Riverside, California to George Fox and Alice Mott. His family is considered a "first family" of California. He graduated with a master's degree in political science from Stanford in 1931 and began working as a teacher at a new junior college where he eventually was named Dean. In 1938 he received a PhD from University of Minnesota with a double major in political science and higher education. He relocated to Washington in 1940.
During World War II, Mott served in the Army. He worked in the inspector general's office in Washington and in Korea and eventually rose to the rank of colonel. After the war, Mott was the chief economist at the old War Assets Administration before founding Mott of Washington and Associates, a municipal and transportation consulting firm, in 1950.
Mott was a founding member of the American-Korean Foundation and acted as the director from 1952-1962. He was also a member of the United Board for Christian Education in Asia, acting as the chairman for their Greater Washington Council from 1967-1981. Additionally, Mott was a member of the Sino-American Cultural Society, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and the Reserve Officers Association. He passed away on September 26, 1987 due to congestive heart failure.
