Biographical Note
American human rights advocate; West Coast coordinator, Amnesty International; vice president, Humanitas; executive director, Aurora Foundation.

Ginetta Sagan was born Teresa Moroni in San Colombano al Lambro, Italy on June 1, 1923. In September 1943, she joined the Italian anti-fascist group Giustizia e Libertà, delivering copies of underground newspapers and gathering intelligence on the location and status of partisan prisoners. After the war, during which she sustained injuries, she recuperated at the Casa di Cura Vallesana in Sondalo, Italy. In 1949, she moved to Paris, France, where she lived at the residence of Joshua G. B. Campbell, a banker and former American Field Service ambulance driver, referred to in her papers as "Papi." She studied psychology at the Sorbonne and met the professor Georges Verdeaux, a specialist in electroencephalography (EEG), who referred her to study psychology at the University of Illinois-Chicago.

In September 1951, she moved to Illinois and met Leonard Sagan, a Stanford graduate studying medicine at the University of Chicago. The two married on March 14, 1952 and had three sons. In 1961, the Sagan family moved to Nagasaki, Japan, where Leonard worked as the medical department chief of the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission. During this time, Ginetta volunteered at an orphanage and organized events for local children. The family returned to the United States in 1964 and, after a year in Boston where Leonard studied at Harvard, the family settled in Washington, D.C. Ginetta continued her volunteer work and joined Amnesty International in 1967. Leonard Sagan accepted a position at the Palo Alto Medical Clinic and the family moved to Atherton, California in 1968. Shortly after, Ginetta founded the first Amnesty International chapter on the west coast. Formally recognized as Group 19 by Amnesty in 1971, Sagan's group provided the basis for Amnesty's Western Regional Office. Within the following year, Sagan established Amnesty's Urgent Action direct mailing campaign, the First Appeal Pledge Program, and organized a benefit concert for Greek prisoners of conscience with Joan Baez and Melina Mercouri. Baez, who became a lifelong friend of Sagan, described their working relationship in her 1987 memoir And a Voice to Sing With.

After her successes on the west coast, Sagan was appointed to the national board of directors of Amnesty International USA. She served twice: from 1973 to 1976 and again from 1983 to 1987. In her first term, she co-organized the first conference for Amnesty's Campaign for the Abolition of Torture, assisted prisoners of conscience in Chile and Argentina, and co-founded AIUSA's newsletter Matchbox. In her second term, she chaired the 25th anniversary committee and organized concerts and other fundraisers.

In April 1981, Sagan established the Aurora Foundation to research human rights violations and assist victims in Poland and Vietnam. Sagan made two trips to Poland in 1985 and 1987 to meet Solidarity members Lech Wałęsa, Henryk Jankowski, and Zbigniew Romaszewski. Working closely with Barbara Piasecka Johnson, Sagan provided financial assistance to Solidarity members and their families. In 1987, Sagan honored Romaszewski with an Aurora Foundation award for human rights. Held at Stanford's Memorial Church, the ceremony featured Czesław Milosz accepting the award on Romaszewski's behalf.

From 1986 to 1990, Sagan was a research scholar at Stanford's Institute for the Study of Women and Gender, where she researched the role of women in the Italian resistance and drafted a memoir of her World War II years. Although neither work was ever completed, Sagan later self-published a book of recipes and essays in 1994, Ginetta Sagan: A Culinary Biography (Box 254).

For her service during World War II and her human rights activism, Sagan was awarded the following: La croce al merito di Guerra, Italy (1968); Italo-American Woman of the Year (1980); honorary doctorate, Starr King School (1981); Jefferson Award (1987); Albert Schweitzer Award from Chapman College (1990); Grande Ufficiale Ordine al Merito della Repubblica Italiana (1995); the U.S. Presidential Medal of Freedom (1996); and the Order of Merit of the Republic of Poland (2010).

Scope and Content of Collection

Acquired in more than twenty separate increments from 1983 to 2011, the papers remain in the order received from the donor. When available, original folder titles have been retained. An index to major groups represented in Sagan's papers is included in this inventory; researchers should note, however, that not all items fall within the groups listed. The bulk of Sagan's papers consists of Aurora Foundation and Amnesty International records, as well as Vietnam research materials used to write two editions of Violations of Human Rights in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

Sagan researched human rights violations throughout the world, but her activism, fundraising, and writing were focused primarily on prisoners of conscience in Cambodia, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Poland, and Vietnam. These materials include correspondence, interview transcripts, research materials, and writings documenting human rights violations. Of particular interest are sound recordings and video tapes of activists Joan Baez, Lech Wałęsa, François Ponchaud, and former prisoners of Vietnamese reeducation camps.

As a scholar at Stanford University's Institute for Research on Women and Gender from 1986 to 1990, Sagan researched the role of women in the Italian resistance during World War II, materials of which can be found in the Italian resistance research group.

Inventory of the Ginetta Sagan papers 83017
Received in 2011, boxes 282 to 351 and oversize materials in box 93 contain the last increment to Ginetta Sagan’s papers. This portion of the collection was assembled by Sim Smiley, a researcher hired by the Aurora Foundation to document Sagan’s life. Comprised mainly of biographical materials such as oral history transcripts, photographs, correspondence, and memoirs, the papers provide more comprehensive documentation of Sagan’s World War II years. The last increment also contains research materials on Vietnam, the Italian resistance, and Aurora Foundation records.
