Scope and Content of Collection

The John H. Bunzel papers consist of speeches and writings, correspondence, minutes, grant proposals, memoranda, reports, studies, hearing transcripts, printed matter, and photographs related to political science, administration of San Jose State University, student radicalism at San Francisco State University, activities of the Institute for Educational Affairs in funding academic research projects, and activities of the Civil Rights Commission in monitoring the status of civil rights in the United States, such as investigating allegations of race or sex discrimination in voting, employment, or housing and considering affirmative action and comparable worth concepts.

Over his career, Bunzel served as a professor of political science, academic president, and Hoover Institution fellow. The Biographical file contains a curriculum vitae detailing Bunzel's career, as well as report cards and photographs. For articles about Bunzel, see the clippings in the speeches and writings series, as well as the San Jose State University file.

The collection contains Correspondence, mainly dating from the 1990s, which includes letters to or from Morris B. Abram, John Kerry, Edward Laurie, Stanley Mosk, Daniel Moynihan, Condoleezza Rice, and David Riesman. Several letters contain discussions of affirmative action issues.

Many of Bunzel's Speeches and writings also comment on affirmative action policies and civil rights issues. This file includes speeches, books, articles by Bunzel and about him, radio commentary, interviews, and chapter drafts for Race Relations on Campus, a book published in 1992 that examines issues of race at Stanford University.

The Professional activities file contains materials related to Bunzel's teaching career, as well as his role as the California delegate to the Democratic National Convention of 1968 and a Hoover Institution fellow. Bunzel was a professor at San Francisco State University from 1953 to 1956 and from 1963 to 1970, an era that saw student unrest and protests. During a lengthy strike in the 1960s, Bunzel was a target of student protesters, suffering disruptions while teaching and threats. This period of student radicalism at San Francisco State University is documented in this file.

Bunzel served as president of San Jose State University from 1970 to 1978. Under his leadership, the university established programs in religious studies, Jewish studies, and women's studies; changed its name from San Jose State College to San Jose State University; and hired more women into high-level administrative positions than any other California State University at that time. The San Jose State University file contains speeches, clippings, and letters documenting Bunzel's activities as president.

Bunzel served on the board of directors for the Institute for Educational Affairs (IEA), which later merged with the Madison Center to become the Madison Center for Educational Affairs. The IEA was an educational foundation established in 1978 with the goal of supporting democratic capitalism. The collection includes materials from board meetings of the IEA, such as agendas, minutes, grant proposals, and reports.

In 1983, President Reagan appointed Bunzel to the United States Commission on Civil Rights, a federal agency established in 1957 to investigate civil rights issues. In 1986, Bunzel called for the resignation of Chairman Clarence Pendleton and did not seek reappointment after the expiration of his term of service. The United States Commission on Civil Rights file includes meeting materials, memoranda, and consultation/hearing binders related to issues of comparable worth, affirmative action, and fair housing. Memoranda often summarize court cases and have attached reports.

The Audiovisual material includes sound recordings of Bunzel's speeches, as well as recordings of events at San Jose State University, such as Bunzel's inauguration as president and his "farewell roast" upon leaving that position. This file contains a videotape of Bunzel being interviewed at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, which includes his comments on Edward Teller. The Oversize material and ephemera contain clippings and a coffee mug imprinted with an article about Bunzel.
