Historical Note
The American Red Cross is a humanitarian organization led by volunteers and guided by its Congressional Charter and the Fundamental Principals of the International Red Cross Movement. The Federal Charter states it is a nonprofit, tax-exempt, charitable organization. The organization’s seven fundamental principles are: humanity, impartiality, neutrality, independence, voluntary service, unity, and universality. This mission guides the organization to provide relief to victims of disasters and to help people prevent, prepare for, and respond to emergencies.
At the beginning of the World War I, the American Red Cross was a small organization still in the process of developing its identity and programs. When the United States declared war against Germany on April 6, 1917, the organization began a period of extraordinary growth. By the time the war ended in November 1918, the Red Cross had become a major national humanitarian organization with strong leadership, a huge membership base, universal recognition, and a broad and distinguished record of service. The Red Cross continues to respond to emergencies today.

Scope and Content of Collection

The records of the American National Red Cross (ARC) in this collection deal mainly with relief around the world during and after World War I.

The records of the ARC are arranged by geographical location where each particular commission operated: commissions for the Balkan States (including countries such as Albania, Austria-Hungary, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro, Romania, Serbia), Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Palestine and Egypt, Switzerland, and Russia (Petrograd Children's Colony, Siberia, Southern Russia, Western Russia, and Baltic States). The documents reflect the massive efforts put forth by the ARC to deliver aid to regions devastated by the war.

If the commission for a certain region or country operated in another territory (for example the Commission for Czechoslovakia opened hospitals on the territory of Russia), the documents may be found among the records of that geographic location. Along with official reports and financial records, correspondence of gratitude for the ARC gives a human side to the organization.

The collection also contains records of related organizations including the American Relief Administration, International and Junior Red Cross, YMCA, and American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. The material presents a comprehensive history of relief work around the world, as well as economic and health conditions, political and social developments.

The Miscellany series includes documents of most geographic areas of the American National Red Cross that were not included in the original arrangement, and contains supplemental records of each commission.

Printed matter contains bulletins, magazines, reports, pamphlets, instructions, and manuals published by the ARC.

Arrangement

Records are arranged as originally received from the organization; generally by Commission or Office in geographical locations as well as the Headquarters Offices. General materials, oversize items, and printed materials may be found after the geographic locations.

Subjects and Indexing Terms

International relief.

World War, 1914-1918--Civilian relief.

World War, 1914-1918--War work.

Since the headquarters were in Vladivostok, all offices and departments of the Commission for Siberia, unless specifically dealing with Western or Central Siberia, are listed under the Vladivostok Office, even though the scope of their administration often encompassed all of Siberia. However, subjects on general activity of the Commission for Siberia are listed separately, at the beginning. Relief to places other than Vladivostok are listed under the specific names of the cities, hospitals, etc. that received aid
