Biographical Note

Leland J. Barrows was born in Lawrence, Kansas; he received his bachelor's and master's degrees in political science from the University of Kansas. Before World War II he worked in the Department of Agriculture, and during the war he was the Assistant Director of the War Relocation Authority.

Barrows joined the State Department in 1947 as Deputy Director of the Office of Informational and Educational Exchange and served in Paris, Rome, Athens, and Saigon as Chief of the International Cooperation Administration's mission. He also served as Regional Director for the Near East and South Asia. During the years 1960 to 1961 he served as Ambassador to Cameroon and Togo.

Upon retiring from the State Department in 1966, Barrows joined the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Pittsburgh. He also served as a senior staff member at the Research Analysis Corporation, as the assistant to the president of the Washington Technical Institute, and as a member of the Center for Strategic and International Studies at Georgetown University.

Barrows died in Washington, D.C. on March 3, 1988.

Scope and Content Note

The Leland J. Barrows papers relate mainly to American foreign relations with South Vietnam and with Africa, especially Cameroon, Nigeria, and South Africa; and to American government policy, as reflected in the activities of the Agency for International Development, regarding foreign aid and promotion of foreign trade.

Papers that were either created by Barrows or collected by him for his projects or assignments in a professional capacity (whether as an ambassador, a senior staff member of an organization, or a member of the faculty of a university) were incorporated in the CAREER FILE. Within that large series, materials that were clearly associated with a particular position can be found under the name of the appropriate government agency, organization, or university. Those that were not are filed by the subject they cover. All other materials, either collected by Barrows for general interest or generated by others, were placed in the SUBJECT FILE.

These records bear testimony to Barrows' knowledge and expertise in the areas of U.S. foreign relations and foreign trade. Of particular interest are his reports on the Vietnam commercial import program and on race relations in South Africa.
