Provenance

The Southern California Regional Planning Collection was donated by the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Department, George Marr, Edward Holden, Glen Blossom, Simon Eisner, and Glenda Hamilton to the Huntington Library in 1997.

Historical Note

The planning history of Los Angeles can be traced to September 4, 1781, when Spanish Governor of the Californias Felipe de Neve founded El Pueblo de Nuestra Señora la Reina de los Ángeles. At the time, planning efforts were mostly simple instructions on the placement of houses and buildings. During the area’s subsequent growth and changes in governing bodies, many planning actions were implemented in limited scope. It was not till early twentieth-century when planners started to give serious thought on preparing the city for future economic and population growth. The use of zoning regulation was first attempted in Los Angeles in 1904, as the ordinance called for the creation of a residential district. In 1908 two new ordinances were implemented to divide the entire city into industrial and residential districts. When the ordinances were contested by a brick manufacturer in 1915, the United States Supreme Court ruled in Hadacheck v. Sebastian in favor of the City, upholding the constitutionality of zoning regulations. In March 1920 the City of Los Angeles adopted a commission ordinance that was drafted by G. Gordon Whitnall. The ordinance appointed a 51-member advisory planning commission to guide the city’s future growth. As consultant-secretary of the planning commission, Whitnall also played a prominent role in the formation of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, which was formed in 1922 to advise the Board of Supervisors on all planning issues.

Scope and Content

The Southern California Regional Planning Collection is organized into two series: 1) Published Planning Reports Series (organized by individual item numbers) 2) Internal Documents Series (organized by box and folder numbers).

The Published Planning Reports Series contains 1,913 individual items that were generated by the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, Los Angeles County Department of Regional Planning, and other planning agencies and... organizations in Southern California. Type of reports include annual reports, area study, comprehensive planning reports, census, conference papers, general plans, guides to zoning and subdivision, planning proposals, traffic and environmental surveys, zoning ordinance, etc. The date range of this series is 1909 to 2003.

The Internal Documents Series contains approximately 913 items in 14 Hollinger boxes. Similar to the Published Planning Reports Series, the majority of the documents were generated by the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission and Department of Regional Planning, followed by the Los Angeles Department of City Planning. Type of documents include census reports, conference papers, maps, memorandums, minutes, photos, plans, reports, speeches, summaries, etc. The date range is 1924 to 2000.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged in the following two series:

- Series I. Published Planning Reports
- Series II. Internal Documents
