Cataloger's Notes
Some BR numbers were skipped and some of the volumes are actually housed in the BR Boxes and map cases.
See also individual Summary Reports for Daniel Family and Fairfax Family.
At the beginning of the Brock section of the chronological file (of the manuscripts catalog) there are collection cards for each sub-collection within the Brock Collection. These often given more information about the individual groupings than will be found in the Summary Reports or finding aid.
A group of unidentified photographs presumably from the Brock Collection were transferred from the Rare Book Department to the Manuscripts Department in November 1973. They are located in Box 397, marked “Brock Collection-Unidentified Photographs.”
Physical description of collection:
- Originals or copies: the contemporary material is largely original, but there are a great many 19th century copies scattered through.
- Condition of the manuscripts: the early papers are in a very fragile condition, and almost all the bindings are broken and worn. Many repairs are needed.
Microfilm copy
A microfilm copy of the collection is held by: The Library of Virginia (800 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219-8000)

Biographical Note
Robert Alonzo Brock (1839-1914), historian, antiquarian, and collector, was born in Richmond, Virginia. He left school at thirteen and entered his uncles’ business; on the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the 21st Virginia Regiment, and later was transferred to a hospital unit with which he served for the duration of the war.
He is best known for his valuable contribution in the editing of source materials for Virginia history, as well as for his activities as corresponding secretary of the Virginia Historical Society (1875-1893), and secretary of the Southern Historical Society (1887-1914).

In the field of manuscripts alone, Brock accumulated some 50,000 pieces having to do with Virginia and the South. The collection consists of many groups of family papers, business and legal material, Civil War correspondence and documents, land papers, religious and fraternal society records, literary manuscripts, scattered county records, and quantities of miscellaneous Virginiana, nondescript as well as rare, together with his own voluminous correspondence.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of papers and manuscripts chiefly related to the history of Virginia, which were collected by historian R. A. Brock (1839-1914). The materials cover a period from 1582-1914, although the main bulk of the manuscripts come between 1780 and 1900. Brock's collection of papers and manuscripts relating to political, military, economic, religious, social, and genealogical history of the state of Virginia. Included are papers of prominent Virginia families, business firms and businessmen, religious and fraternal organizations, government offices and departments, politicians, statesmen, and administrators. The large group of individual items described by a misnomer Miscellaneous File and Miscellaneous Manuscripts apparently constituted the core of Mr. Brock's collection. Most materials concern history of Virginia, with items relating to other Southern States, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, New York, etc. Brock's own voluminous private and official correspondence, and papers of the Virginia Historical Society and the Southern Historical Society.

The volumes are mostly:

- Account books, including a copy of George Washington's ledger
- Letter books
- Diaries
- Orderly books
- Sermons
- Parish records, including the original Mannakin Town register

The single letters and documents are of all types – personal, commercial and political. They have been divided into sub-collections wherever there were enough papers of one individual, one family, or one institution, to justify such division. These sub-collections include about 25,000 manuscripts. Correspondence of Mr. Brock and other officers of the Virginia Historical Society, amounting to at least 15,000 pieces, has been arranged in a rough chronological order. A group of several hundred pieces of literary material is sorted alphabetically. The rest of the manuscripts have been arranged chronologically in a miscellaneous file of about 7,000 to 8,000 pieces.
