Provenance unknown, found in collection unaccessioned. Possibly acquired from North Beach Museum.

Historical or Biographical Note

The building was designed by architect William S. Mooser, Jr. and built between 1907-1909 for the California Fruit Canners Association. In 1916, the company merged with three other canners to form the California Packing Company, with foods baring the Del Monte label. From 1937-1948, the building served as storage space for the company's goods until it was purchased in 1948 by the Haslett Warehouse Company. The State of California purchased the building in 1963. It was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1975, and in 1978 it was acquired by the National Park Service. The building currently houses a hotel and the San Francisco Maritime National Historical Park Visitor Center. Source: National Register of Historic Places Inventory - Nomination Form, 1975.

Collection Scope and Content
The Haslett Warehouse photographs, 1928, circa 1990-2000, (SAFR 24645, P15-018) are comprised of photographs of the Haslett Warehouse building, formerly the California Packing Corporation plant, at the foot of Hyde Street in San Francisco, California. The collection has been processed to the Collection level and is open for use.

Consists of two photographic prints: Item 1. Aerial view of the California Packing Corporation plant, San Francisco, California, 1928. 1 black-and-white photographic print, 8 x 10 in. The city is visible in the background, including Telegraph Hill and the North Beach neighborhood. Adhered to the verso of the print is text that reads "The Del Monte Cannery founded by Marco Fontana in 1908 as the California Packing Corporation. It was located at the corner of Jefferson and Hyde Streets. The photo was taken in 1928. The building still stands today. Photo credit: Eureka Bank North Beach Museum."

Item 2. Haslett Warehouse as seen from the corner of Hyde Street and Beach Street, circa 1990-2000. 1 color photographic print, 8 x 10 in.
