Scope and Content Note
The Hollister Wheelwright papers include research notes, manuscripts for articles and books, essays and books, correspondence files, and photographs.

In the 1960s Joseph served as president of the International Association for Analytical Psychology, and the collection contains extensive drafts and transcripts of speeches and articles, and interviews from that time.

Jane Hollister Wheelwright’s writings include lectures on gender and other topics, and the research files and manuscript drafts for her books The Ranch Papers: a California Memoir (1988); The Long Shore: a Psychological Experience of the Wilderness (1991) with her daughter Lynda Wheelwright Schmidt; and Death of a Woman (1981).

Joseph Wheelwright’s writings include drafts of numerous lectures on the subjects of geriatrics, psychological types, the Student Mental Health Clinic at the University of California Berkeley, the Gray-Wheelwright Type Test, and the book St. George and the Dandelion: Forty Years of Practice as a Jungian Analyst (1982). See the Opus Archives and Research Center website for a bibliography of the Wheelwrights’ works.

Also held in the collection are interview transcripts about the Franklin Collective, which was a commune in Vermont during the 1970s; the history of the Hollister Ranch; Lincoln Steffens, who was a famous Socialist journalist and an uncle of Jane's; psychotherapy in the United States; and Jane’s experience of studying to be a Jungian analyst during the 1930s. Sound recordings in the collection include audiotapes of lectures by Jungians; lectures and interviews by the Wheelwrights; and an extensive collection of Dictaphone belts, many with typed transcripts, used by Jane for her correspondence and writings.

Photographs include pictures of C.G. Jung, Marie-Louise von Franz, Mary Briner, and others.

Biography/Organization History
Jane Hollister Wheelwright (1905-2004) was a Jungian analyst and author, and Joseph Balch Wheelwright, MD (1906-1999) was a doctor and a Jungian analyst. Both studied with C.G. Jung, Marie Louise von Franz, and Toni Wolff in Zürich, Switzerland during the 1930s and practiced in San Francisco beginning in 1941. They were among the founders of the C.G. Jung Institute of San Francisco, and Joseph served as President of the International Association of Analytical Psychology. They were major figures in the dissemination of Jung’s ideas in America.

Jane’s practice and writing focused on the connection between wilderness and psyche and also the psychological processes of death. Joseph taught psychiatry at the University of California San Francisco Medical Center for over 30 years, which became a leading psychiatric training institute in the nation.

In later years, they spent much time living on land that had been part of the Hollister Ranch, located west of Santa Barbara, where Jane had grown up.
