Biography / Administrative History

Allen Chamberlin is a Sacramento resident that lived in Sacramento throughout the 1970s to the present. Chamberlin witnessed a time period where an influx of people moved to Sacramento for more affordable living. This was also the beginning stages of the development of the Sacramento LGBT Community. In 2000, Chamberlin donated a series of periodicals that highlight the development and creation of the LGBT scene in Sacramento. The first newspaper dedicated to the LGBT community launched in 1966 and went by the name of The Association for Responsible Citizenship. In 1977, Gibbous Rising was launched by publishers Barbara Ward and Roxanne Mitchell. A year later, Linda Birner established the newspaper and magazine Mom...Guess What! It became the most popular newspaper throughout Sacramento to inform the LGBT community about businesses, recreational activities and nightlife that were LGBT accepting.

Scope and Content of Collection

This collection is divided into two series: LGBT Periodicals and Sacramento Periodicals. However, majority of the collection primarily documents the developing and maintaining of the LGBT Community in Sacramento, California. Donated by Sacramento resident, Allen Chamberlin, the collection consists of periodicals that trace the birth and rise of the LGBT Community in Sacramento as well as the rise of other Sacramento neighborhoods. The collection covers forty years of Sacramento LGBT history, California law making, and the local Sacramento scene. Topics and subjects included in the collection are LGBT community building, gay entrepreneurship, HIV/AIDS education and California laws regarding Homosexuality.

The LGBT Periodicals are a compilation of newspapers, magazines and fliers in the form of print. Dating back to the late 1970s to 2016, the periodicals showcase testimonials, picnic ads, realtor ads, bars, restaurants, clubs, sporting activities and local laws that relate to or embrace the LGBT community.

The Sacramento Periodicals are a compilation of magazines in the form of print that are dedicated to informing Sacramento residents about the events and changes taking place in Sacramento. This portion of the collection extends from October 2001 to November 2015.

The scope and content of this collection is geographically situated in Sacramento in neighborhoods such as Land Park, East Sacramento and Midtown.

The following series scope and content notes only offers selected highlights, please see the container list for a full listing of the series contents.

Arrangement

Series 1 - LGBT Periodicals comprises primarily material documenting the LGBT community in the Greater Sacramento Area. Through these publications, the growing LGBT community was able to share resources and events that welcomed their presence. From news about laws being passed regarding sexuality to local picnics, members of the LGBT community knew that they could rely on these periodicals to keep them updated on the local scene.
