Abstract: Correspondence, diaries, interview transcripts, and other material related to Ethel Thomas Herold and Elmer Herold, who lived and taught in the Philippines for 37 years beginning in 1922. For three of those years the Herolds were held in Japanese internment camp called Camp Holmes during World War II. They witnessed the Philippines change from being a colony to an independent nation. There is also material concerning Betty Halsema Foley and Jim Halsema, the latter a journalist with the Herolds in the internment camp.
Scope and Contents
The papers include correspondence (from both Ethel and Elmer), a transcript of Ethel's experiences during World War II as told to Charles Vial, Ethel's World War II diary, and material relating to Betty Halsema Foley and Jim Halsema, the latter a journalist with the Herolds in the internment camp (Camp Holmes). In addition there are four volumes of The Ariel, 1915-1918, a yearbook published by the junior class of Lawrence College (Appleton, Wisconsin).
Biographical / Historical
Ethel Thomas Herold grew up in small-town Wisconsin, married her college sweet-heart, Elmer, and both followed her brother to teach in the Philippines in 1922. There, with but a couple of brief interruptions, she spent the next thirty-seven years, including three in a Japanese internment camp during World War II. They witnessed the Philippines change from being a colony to an independent nation.
