Biographical / Historical

Nicole Baran is from San Francisco and received her BA and MA in English from Stanford University (2000 and 2001) and Masters in Social Work (MSW) from Washington University in St. Louis (2003), with a specialization in management and a focus on domestic violence research. Nicole founded the Center for Relationship Abuse Awareness (the Center) in 2005, a nonprofit that educates and trains communities, institutions and young leaders to take action to end violence against women. As of 2015, the Center's website, www.stoprelationshipabuse.org, provides professional resources to an average of 40,000 unique visitors per month from 196 countries. Nicole taught in the Feminist Studies Program at Stanford University from 2006-2007 to 2013-2014 after developing the course FEMST 138/238 (FEMGEN 138/238) Violence Against Women: Theories, Issues, and Prevention. She changed the course in 2016-2017 to Men's Violence Against Women: A Social & Critical Analysis.

The motivation to start the Center and include a Stanford student leadership program was inspired by the concept that Stanford is a leader in research and innovation-- why can't it be a leader in ending violence against women? In 2006, Nicole successfully partnered with Stanford University to institutionalize a comprehensive response to gender-based violence on campus. Stanford hired the Center to manage a five-year grant from the USDOJ Office on Violence Against Women; Nicole also wrote the proposal to the provost in 2010 to establish Stanford's first Office on Sexual Assault and Relationship Abuse (SARA). In her 2014 op-ed in the Stanford Daily, "Stanford Drops the Ball on Sexual Assault Cases," Nicole writes "The Center wrote the proposal to establish the Office of Sexual Assault and Relationship Abuse in hopes that an official office would lead to greater change, but until the SARA office reports directly to the Provost or President of the University, we will continue to see ineffective and inadequate responses to these issues." She writes, "The Center decided to stop working with Stanford in 2011 largely due to the fact that the people in power at Stanford continued to prioritize liability over student safety."

Prior to the Center for Relationship Abuse Awareness, she was the Grant and Contract Manager at the Support Network for Battered Women in Mountain View. Previously, she worked for the Greenbook Initiative (a national collaboration) in St. Louis and produced state guidelines regarding the response of domestic violence service providers to the co-occurrence of child maltreatment and domestic violence. She conducted national trainings and contributed to publications to improve the institutional response to gender-based violence from 2001-2015. She delivered over 350 customized workshops to organizations such as Kaiser Permanente, the San Francisco Bar Association, the Family Violence Prevention Fund (Futures Without Violence), and CPEDV, California's State Domestic Violence Coalition. One of her specific research areas was analyzing the impact of the anti-feminist backlash on research and practices in the movement to end gender-based violence.

Provost Proposal Prep 2010Scope and Contents

After asking for input and feedback from relevant department heads, a delay of 5 weeks from Baran's initial proposal draft occurred due to one department head's refusal to budge on changing the percentage of time allocated to direct service (advocacy) by the director; he wanted it to be 25% without relevant rationale. Baran had made it 5% while allocating a full time position to direct service in order to ensure the director, with limited resources and staff, would have time to properly train all other first responders and make important policy changes without being pulled away for advocacy services that could be conducted by the full time advocacy position written into the proposal. This is consistent with best practices. The justification for this allocation by Baran is included in this folder. See Memorabilia Binder for unsent letter by Baran about this incident; it is in Speaking Truth and Moving Sand.

Intern/Next Generation Leadership Program Series 8

Scope and Contents

The Center managed between 5 to 20 interns at one time, including a summer internship program of 2-4 interns. It was started as a leadership program with the intent of creating opportunities for students to affect change in ending VAW in any discipline they chose. Once the Center started the OVW Grant at Stanford, the intern program became a project of the grant. When the Center left Stanford, the intern leadership program continued as the Next Generation Leadership Program.

Articles Related to the Anti-Feminist Backlash, Gender Symmetry Proponents

Scope and Contents

Backlash stands for anti-feminist backlash. Gender symmetry proponents (or research) and gender neutrality (or research) proponents either actively or unintentionally contribute to backlash theorists. Gender neutrality in this context is different than encouraging gender neutrality in direct service, which is important. Anti-feminist backlash theorists challenge the progress of the movement by promoting the inaccurate concept that women are equally as violent as men and are equally likely to be perpetrators, discounting or ignoring research that finds that up to 95% of relationship abuse and 99% of sexual assault is perpetrated by a man against a woman. The research that fuels the anti-feminist backlash is largely completed with ineffective research models and inaccurate data.

Greenbook Initiative Documents/Trainings Series 20Scope and Contents

Effective Intervention in Domestic Violence & Child Maltreatment Cases: Guidelines for Policy and Practice, also known as the "Greenbook," is a set of recommendations designed to help dependency courts and child welfare and domestic violence agencies better serve families experiencing violence. The Family Violence Department of the National Council of Juvenile & Family Court Judges (NCJFCJ) brought together a diverse, expert committee to develop the Greenbook over many months. Its recommendations are being used, formally and informally, by hundreds of communities across the nation and around the world. From 2000-2007, the United States Departments of Health and Human Services and Justice funded six demonstration sites across the country. The demonstration sites joined battered women's organizations, child protection agencies, the courts, and other partners in implementing the Greenbook's recommendations.

Baran worked with three of the six counties selected, starting as a cross-trainer: St. Louis County, MO, (2002-2004) Santa Clara County, CA (2004-2005), San Francisco County, CA (2005-2007). She also presented at the National Summit in 2009, which was the 10 year anniversary and a gathering of experts across the country.

Judicial Affairs Training/Judicial Affairs Issues Complications Series 24Scope and Contents

As with all of the training materials, the handouts and PowerPoints are incomplete without the verbal presentation associated with them.

Scope and Contents

The Center, as part of the OVW grant, providing training to JA panelists. This was the first time Relationship Abuse was integrated into training. Historically, it was only sexual assault. Baran made it mandatory of 6 hours of topic training, though she wanted it to be more. It had previously only been integrated into the standard 3 hour training on JA panelist requirements.

Box 12	Training Justification
	Scope and Contents
	These are the documents prepared by Baran and Amy (program director and an attorney) that outlined the justification of the training which was based on OVW standards and requirements, NCHERM standards, etc. This was necessary after Stanford's legal office decided that the best way to deal with potential backlash or threats of lawsuits by charged perpetrators was to eliminate relationship abuse from the training altogether, a very short-sighted suggestion.
Box 12	JA Training Review/Op-Ed
	Scope and Contents
	This was the meeting to review the JA training because of the op-ed.
