Abstract: The Barbara O. Schneeman Papers document UC Davis faculty member Barbara Schneeman's career as teacher, administrator, and public servant. The papers date 1934 to 2007, with the bulk of the material falling between 1988 and 2006. The collection includes materials related to Dr. Schneeman's teaching at UC Davis in the Department of Nutrition; her service as Chair of the Department of Nutrition and of Dean of the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences; and her work as Assistant Administrator for Nutrition in the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). The collection also includes a small set of photographs.
Researchers should contact Special Collections to request collections, as many are stored offsite.
Biography
Barbara O. Schneeman received her bachelor's degree in food science and technology from the University of California, Davis in 1970. In 1974, she received her Ph.D. from the University of California, Berkeley and continued on to postdoctoral training in gastro-intestinal physiology at Children's Hospital in Oakland, California.
From 1976-2007, Dr. Schneeman was Professor of Nutrition at the University of California, Davis. During this time, she also served in several administrative roles, including Chair of the Department of Nutrition (1988-1993), Dean of the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences (1993-1999), and Associate Vice Provost for University Research (2001-2004). In addition to her academic career, Barbara Schneeman has been active in many state, national, and international organizations, including the National Academies of Science, the United States Department of Agriculture, the United Nations, the World Health Organization, the American Society for Nutrition, and the Institute of Food Technologists. Currently, Dr. Schneeman is Director of the Office of Nutrition, Labeling, and Dietary Supplements in the Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition at the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA).
