Processing History
Biography
Erwin Chemerinsky is an American lawyer and scholar, known for his studies in United States constitutional law and federal civil procedure. He served as the founding dean of the University of California, Irvine School of Law from 2009 to 2017, and is currently the dean of the University of California, Berkeley, School of Law.
Chemerinsky was born in Chicago, Illinois, on May 14, 1953. He attended high school at University of Chicago Laboratory Schools and earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Communications from Northwestern University in 1975, where he also competed as a debater. He then attended Harvard Law School and graduated cum laude in 1978. Chemerinsky married fellow law professor, Catherine Fisk, in 1993 and have two children, Alex and Mara. He also has two sons, Jeffrey and Adam, from his first marriage to Marcy Strauss.
Chemerinsky began his academic career teaching at DePaul University College of Law from 1980-1984. During this period he was also named Director of the National High School Institute in Speech, Forensics Division at Northwestern University (1981-1982), which provided intensive and comprehensive summer debate experience to high school debaters. He became a visiting Associate Professor at the University of Southern California Gould School of Law in 1983 and joined the faculty a year later. He became a Professor in 1987 before being appointed the Legion Lex Professor of Law (1991-1997), Sydney M. Irmas Professor of Public Interest Law, Legal Ethics, and Political Science (1997-2004) and Director of the Center for Communications Law and Policy (2000-2004). In 2004, Chemerinsky became the Alston and Bird Professor of Law and Political Science at Duke University until 2008. He has also been a lecturer for BAR/BRI bar review since 1989, teaching Constitutional Law and Professional Responsibility.
In fall 2007, Chemerinsky was named the founding Dean and Distinguished Professor of Law of UC Irvine School of Law, effective July 2008, where he appointed his “dream team” of faculty and staff to form the foundation of the Law School. His expertise in First Amendment law led to him being named as Raymond Pryke Professor of First Amendment Law with a joint appointment in Political Science in 2013, where he taught, wrote, and spoke on First Amendment issues, including the role of a free press in preserving democratic society. In the highest debut ranking by a new law school, UC Irvine School of Law ranked number 30 in its first year of eligibility. The Inaugural Class of 2012 passed the California bar at a rate of 90 percent, second only to Stanford among state law schools. The Class of 2012 was also ranked in the top 20 of The National Law Journal's list of Go-To Law Schools, which measured percentage of students obtaining jobs at the nation's 250 largest law firms.

Chemerinsky became the 13th Dean of Berkeley Law in July 2017, when he joined the faculty as the Jesse H. Choper Distinguished Professor of Law.

In addition to his academic career, Chemerinsky began practicing law as a trial attorney for the United States Department of Justice (1978-1979) and at Dobrovir, Oakes & Gebhardt in Washington, D.C. (1979-1980). Since then he has frequently argued pro bono appellate cases, including serving as counsel of record and arguing in the Supreme Court of the United States in United States v. Apel (2013), Scheidler v. NOW (2005), Van Orden v. Perry (2005), Tory v. Cochran (2005), and Lockyer v. Andrade (2003). He has briefed and argued cases in federal courts of appeals, the California Supreme Court, and other courts.

Over the years he has been involved in many high profile projects and professional activities, including serving as Commissioner and Chair of the Los Angeles Elected Charter Reform Commission (1997-1999) which proposed a new City Charter, and was adopted by voters in June 1999; preparing and publishing an An Independent Analysis of the Los Angeles Police Department's Board of Inquiry Report on the Rampart Scandal (September 2000), at the request of the Los Angeles Police Protective League; serving as Chair of the Mayor’s Blue Ribbon Commission on City Contracting in Los Angeles to review irregularities, which issued its report in February 2005; helped draft the Constitution of Belarus (1992-1993); testifying many times before congressional and state legislative committees, including as a witness before the Senate Judiciary Committee on the hearings of Samuel Alito for confirmation to the Supreme Court in January 2006; and serving as a commentator on the O.J. Simpson trial on KCBS-TV, KNX, and CBS News in 1995.

Chemerinsky is the author of 11 books including The Case Against the Supreme Court, published by Viking in 2014, and two books published by Yale University Press in 2017, Closing the Courthouse Doors: How Your Constitutional Rights Became Unenforceable and Free Speech on Campus (with Chancellor of UCI, Howard Gillman). He is also the author of more than 200 law review articles. He writes a weekly column for the Sacramento Bee, monthly columns for the American Bar Association Journal and the Daily Journal, and frequent op-eds in newspapers across the country.

In 2016, he was named a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In January 2017, National Jurist magazine again named Chemerinsky as the most influential person in legal education in the United States.

Case files Series 3. 1979-2016

Series Scope and Content Summary
This series contains case files for over 100 cases Chemerinsky was involved in, either as counsel of record, amicus curiae, or consultant. The files include material on the five cases he argued in the Supreme Court of the United States: United States v. Apel (2013), Scheidler v. NOW (2005), Van Orden v. Perry (2005), Tory v. Cochran (2005), and Lockyer v. Andrade (2003). Most of the case files consist of documents from the court, including briefs, petitions for writ of certiorari, orders, motions, and transcripts - although some cases have more documentation than others. Material related to Chemerinsky's involvement in representing Guantanamo Bay detainee Salem Abdul Salem Ghereby (Gherebi v. Bush) was combined with other material (such as the other habeas corpus cases and Al Odah v. United States, which were consolidated in the Supreme Court case, Boumediene v. Bush) under "Guantanamo detainees". Cases related to Ford Motor Company were grouped together under "Ford litigation" and folders labeled "Old Eastern District of Louisiana filings", which contain various cases, were also grouped together. There are some various cases in the collection where it was unclear how Chemerinsky was involved; these were grouped together but are labeled individually on the folders by case.

Series Arrangement
The series is arranged alphabetically by case name.

Processing Note
Many files in this series were not labeled clearly and titles were supplied during processing to clarify file contents. If folder labels were available, those titles were preserved with minimal revisions to clarify contents.
