Biography

Marian Bergeson, the first Republican woman elected to both the California State Assembly and California State Senate, has served Orange County and the state of California as a school board representative, president of the California School Boards Association, California state assemblywoman, California state senator, Orange County supervisor, secretary of Child Development and Education under Governor Pete Wilson, and member of the California Transportation Commission under Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger.

During her years in the California State Legislature Bergeson was a strong advocate for education and children's issues. She served as vice chairman of both the assembly and senate education committees and also as a member of both the assembly and senate budget sub-committees on education. As a member of the state senate she chaired the Committee on Local Government, the Select Committee on Planning for California's Growth, and the Select Committee for Water Marketing. She also served on committees for appropriations, ethics, health and human services, industrial relations, transportation, and others.

Among her many significant legislative achievements are:

- Bills to reform the teacher credentialing process, including the Marian Bergeson Beginning Teacher Assessment Act (BTSA).

- Critical Bond Funds for school facilities (SB 22, 1988).

- Bill to prevent "bracket creep" by indexing income taxes (AB 276, 1979).

- Reform to bring more certainty to the adoption process.

- "One strike you're out" for violent sex offenders.

- Cal/EPA streamlining bill.

Bergeson-Peace Infrastructure Bank, now called California Infrastructure Bank.

At the local level Bergeson served as a member of the Orange County Juvenile Justice Commission, Southern California Association of Governments, CalOPTIMA, Orange County Transportation Authority (OCTA), Transportation Corridor Agencies, and the Orange County Fire Authority. She also served on the Advisory Board of the Orange County Junior League, Orangewood Foundation for abused and neglected children, Brigham Young University (BYU) Business Management Council, KOCE Foundation, EdVoice Policy Board, University of California, Irvine (UCI) Foundation, UCI Leadership Council Center for the Study of Democracy, and Orange County Technology Foundation.

As of 2008, Bergeson still serves on the California Transportation Commission. She also continues to act as an advocate for children and education in the capacity of advisor or board member for several Orange County community organizations. The Marian Bergeson Elementary School in Laguna Niguel and the Marian Bergeson Aquatic Center in Corona del Mar are named in her honor. In 2007 she celebrated her 83rd birthday by skydiving.

Collection Scope and Content Summary

This collection comprises the administrative and legislative files of California state legislator Marian Bergeson. For the most part these materials document her service in the assembly (1978-1984) and the senate (1984-1994). The administrative records were primarily generated by Bergeson's senatorial offices. The biographical materials contain scrapbooks about her years in the assembly and various materials about her years as senator. The campaign materials contain information about her pursuit of the offices of lieutenant governor, senator, assemblywoman, Orange County supervisor, and Newport-Mesa School Board representative. Most of the speeches in the collection were prepared and delivered during her service as senator. The audiovisual materials document various radio and television appearances she made during her political career. Files on bills and resolutions primarily reflect her legislative efforts in the senate. The subject files and publications reflect her responsibilities and concerns as assemblywoman and senator.

Collection Arrangement

This collection is arranged in eight series.

- Series 1. Administrative records, 1984-1994. 0.5 linear feet
