Acquisition Information

Alternative Forms of Material
A selection of images from this collection has been digitized and is available in the Online Archive of UCI History.

Processing History
Processed by Leah Loscutoff, 2009-2010. Student employees Cesar Gallagos, Anne Nguyen, Alice Kwak, and Thao Le helped with some processing.

Processing Note
Over the years the University Communications photographs were processed piecemeal as different accessions arrived. To enhance access, this collection has been completely reprocessed. For the most part, the original order of the collection has been retained, but series spanning multiple accessions have been brought together. This collection has been minimally processed in that images are described sheet by sheet, or folder by folder, rather than at the item level. Although most items are sleeved in archivally safe sleeves, not all of the photographs in the subject files are sleeved. Researchers will need to use gloves when looking through the subject files. Although physical processing was kept to a minimum, detailed description of the photographs will enhance access.

Collection Scope and Content Summary
The University Communications photographs were created by staff photographers employed by the University of California, Irvine, University Communications. Images depict students, staff, faculty, campus events, buildings, landscapes, festivals, and the surrounding area in Orange County. Formats include photographic prints, contact sheets, slides, negatives, and digital images transferred on CDs. Many images document the early campus area before and during construction are included. Notable events pictured include graduation ceremonies, Wayzgoose/Celebrate UCI events, the site dedication, and inaugurations of chancellors. The photographs also provide evidence of the changing landscape of UCI, which started as a large ranch area with cattle, fields, and a wide open space, and evolved into a major research university with over 17,000 students.
