Biography

Frank Beck was born in 1893 in Tacoma, Washington; was staff artist for the Tacoma High School yearbook; enrolled at University of California at Berkeley in 1912, but left to attend classes at the Chicago Art Institute; joined advertising department at Cadillac in Detroit, Michigan; illustrator of New York Tribune Automobile Section; after serving in World War I, began first cartoon strip, Down the road (1920-36); other cartoon strips included Hem and Amy (1926-37), All in a lifetime (1935-62), and Bo (1940-56); died in San Diego, California, 1962.

Biographical Narrative

Frank Beck was born in Tacoma, Washington in 1898. As a young boy, he attended Tacoma public schools and First Methodist Episcopal Sunday School. He then entered Tacoma high School where he was staff artist for the school yearbook, The Tacoma. After high school graduation in 1912, Beck enrolled in the University of California, Berkeley, but left there to attend classes at the Chicago Art Institute.

In 1917, Beck began his career as a professional illustrator when he joined the advertising department of the Cadillac Motor Company Detroit. His next job, illustrator of the New York Tribune Automobile Section, enabled him to polish his cartooning style. However, World War I intervened and Beck became staff artist for the U.S. Army's Evacuation Ambulance Company no.2.

After the war, Beck returned to civilian life and began a new career as a cartoonist for the newspaper syndicates. His first strip, a weekly panel entitled, Down the Road featuring Mr. and Mrs. Bumpo's Gas Buggies which became Hem and Amy, a daily strip concerning the joys and tribulations of marriage and child raising, appeared from 1926 to 1937. Beck drew heavily upon his own family experiences for this strip.

In 1935, Beck introduced Beck's Daily Cartoon which soon became All in a Lifetime, a daily single panel cartoon about life: recollections of the good old days, the absurdities of neighbors, young love, etc. Often his recollections of life in Tacoma appeared in these cartoons which remained in syndication until Beck's death. Bo, a daily strip about the adventures of a dog and his human family, began in 1950 and continued until 1956.

In addition to his long career as a syndicated cartoonist, Beck was a member of the National Cartoonists Society, the Kiwanis Club, and the San Diego Humane Society. In 1924, Frank and Marian Beck moved to San Diego where they raised their two daughters, Barbara and Nancy, and were active members of the community. In 1939, the family moved to New Canaan, Connecticut. The Becks returned to San Diego in 1951, and remained there until Frank Beck died in 1962.

The collection reflects Beck's entire career: the various cartoon strips, containing original ink drawings, proof sheets, publicity, clippings, and related ephemera; his work/clipping files; correspondence; and photographs.
