Abstract: Estelle (Peck) Ishigo (1899- ) was born in Oakland, California. She attended Otis Art Institute where she met and married San Franciscan Nisei, Arthur Ishigo (ca. 1929). Following Pearl Harbor, both were fired from their jobs and Arthur was ordered to a concentration camp. Estelle voluntarily accompanied him, and they were eventually assigned to Heart Mountain concentration camp in Wyoming. Estelle documented life at the camp through her artwork. The collection consists of documents, records, correspondence, photographs, paintings, pencil drawings and sketches, and watercolor sketches related to Estelle Ishigo's life in the Pomona Assembly Center, California and the Heart Mountain Relocation Center, Wyoming. There is also material related to the Ishigo's postwar resettlement in Southern California.

Processing History

Regarding the following item:

Item no. 17 (Box 78, Folder 6) Geo Hirahara, Heart Mt., Wyoming. Date Created: November 9, 1945

(1 photograph : black and white ; 13 x 18 cm.)

Per communication from fourth generation descendant Patti Hirahara in 2011, this photograph was taken by George Hirahara on February 15, 1945, the father of Frank Hirahara, who is standing in the photograph facing the barracks and skyline of Heart Mountain Japanese Internment Camp in Wyoming.

The original signed photograph, with holograph inscription on the corner, "Geo Hirahara at Heart Mt. Wyo 9-9-45" was removed from the collection in March 2011, and provided to Patti Hirahara upon her claim of ownership. Ms. Hirahara provided an unsigned original print of the same photograph as a replacement.

Background information on the Hirahara Family

The Hirahara family immigrated to the Yakima Valley in Washington State in 1909 from Wakayama-Ken, Japan. Three generations of the Hirahara Family were interned in Heart Mountain, Wyoming from 1942-1945.

George and Frank Hirahara were avid photographers in Heart Mountain from 1943-1945. George was a member of the Heart Mountain Camera club and created his own photo darkroom under his barrack. His son Frank was Photo Editor of the 1944 Tempo Yearbook, while a Senior at Heart Mountain High School and ASB Commissioner of General Activities.

Frank Hirahara came back from Washington State University to Heart Mountain in February of 1945 due to his Grandfather Motokichi Hirahara being ill and passing away six days later.

A signed print dated September 9, 1945 from photographer George Hirahara was donated by Estelle Ishigo to UCLA to be included in her collection.

Biography
Estelle (Peck) Ishigo was born in Oakland, California, 1899; attended Otis Art Institute; met and married San Franciscan Nisei, Arthur Ishigo (ca. 1929); following Pearl Harbor, both were fired from their jobs and Arthur ordered to a concentration camp; Estelle voluntarily accompanied him and they were eventually assigned to Heart Mountain concentration camp in Wyoming; Estelle documented life at the camp through her artwork; they lived in poverty for many years following the war; Arthur died, 1957; fellow Heart Mountain inmates helped Ishigo republish her 1972 book, Lone Heart Mountain, ca. 1984; filmmaker Steven Okazaki made a documentary of Ishigo's life titled, Days of Waiting; she died before seeing the film (1990).

Additional Biographical Narrative
Estelle Ishigo was a Caucasian artist and daughter of a concert singer and portrait and landscape artist. Born in Oakland, California, Estelle was surrounded by music and art. At age four, she showed promising abilities in painting and singing. By age twelve, she learned to play the violin.

While attending Otis Art School in Los Angeles, Estelle met Arthur Shigeharu Ishigo (1902-1957), a San Francisco-born Nisei and aspiring actor. They were married in 1928.

At the outbreak of World War II, husband and wife were placed in the Pomona Assembly Center. Eventually, Estelle accompanied her husband to the Heart Mountain Relocation Camp in Wyoming where she was commissioned by the War Relocation Authority (WRA) to sketch her experiences.

During her three and a half year internment, Estelle helped with the camp newspapers and played violin in the camp's Mandolin Band. When the war ended and the camps closed, the Ishigos left Heart Mountain and returned to Southern California where they lived in a trailer camp and worked in fish canneries in San Pedro. Two years later, Arthur procured work at the Los Angeles International Airport which enabled them to visit New York, Chicago, Dallas, and Mexico City. After Arthur passed away in 1957, Estelle stayed in seclusion until the California Historical Society asked to show her paintings in their Months of Waiting exhibit.

Discovered by the Hollywood Chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL), Estelle's Lone Heart Mountain was published in 1972, a book which she wrote and sketched during her encampment years.

Just two years before Estelle's death, Producer/Director Steven Okazaki released the film Days of Waiting about Estelle's life as one of the few Caucasians to be interned with 100,000 Japanese Americans. The film earned the Academy Award for Best Documentary Short Subject and received the prestigious George Peabody Award. Estelle Ishigo's extraordinary artistic talent as well as her devotion to her husband make Days of Waiting a poignant retrospection.

Scope and Content
Collection consists of documents, records, correspondence, photographs, paintings, pencil drawings and sketches, and watercolor sketches related to Estelle Ishigo's life in the Pomona Assembly Center, California and the Heart Mountain Relocation Center, Wyoming. The collection also includes material related to the Ishigo's postwar resettlement in Southern California. Additionally there are short essays, manuscripts, and draft manuscripts by Estelle Ishigo.

Expanded Scope and Content Note
The Estelle Ishigo papers are a part of the Japanese American Research Project (JARP) Collection (Collection 2010). JARP is considered one of the finest collections of primary sources in the United States on Japanese immigration history. Conducted under the sponsorship of the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL), JARP was a socio-historical research project which began in 1962 and lasted until 1972. During the course of the project, the JARP staff amassed a sizable body of material in the Japanese language which became the core of the JARP Collection. Additions were made as they were obtained.

The Ishigo papers is part of the Nisei personal papers section of JARP's manuscript holdings. It consists mainly of documents, records, correspondence and other materials relating both to Estelle Ishigo's life in the Pomona Assembly Center, California, and the Heart Mountain Relocation Center, Wyoming, as well as documents, correspondence and materials relating to Arthur and Estelle Ishigo's postwar resettlement in Southern California. The papers also contain Estelle Ishigo's manuscripts, short essays and draft manuscripts. Noteworthy is the presence of Estelle's various paintings, sketches and watercolors.

Item no. 17 Geo Hirahara, Heart Mt., Wyoming. Date Created: November 9, 1945.

Physical Description: (1 photograph : black and white ; 13 x 18 cm.)

Processing History
Per communication from fourth generation descendant Patti Hirahara in 2011, this photograph was taken by George Hirahara on February 15, 1945, the father of Frank Hirahara, who is standing in the photograph facing the barracks and skyline of Heart Mountain Japanese Internment Camp in Wyoming.

The original signed photograph, with holograph inscription on the corner, “Geo Hirahara at Heart Mt. Wyo 9-9-45” was removed from the collection in March 2011, and provided to Patti Hirahara upon her claim of ownership. Ms. Hirahara provided an unsigned original print of the same photograph as a replacement.

Background information on the Hirahara Family
The Hirahara family immigrated to the Yakima Valley in Washington State in 1909 from Wakayama-Ken, Japan. Three generations of the Hirahara Family were interned in Heart Mountain, Wyoming from 1942-1945.

George and Frank Hirahara were avid photographers in Heart Mountain from 1943-1945. George was a member of the Heart Mountain Camera club and created his own photo darkroom under his barrack. His son Frank was Photo Editor of the 1944 Tempo Yearbook, while a Senior at Heart Mountain High School and ASB Commissioner of General Activities.

Frank Hirahara came back from Washington State University to Heart Mountain in February of 1945 due to his Grandfather Motokichi Hirahara being ill and passing away six days later.

A signed print dated September 9, 1945 from photographer George Hirahara was donated by Estelle Ishigo to UCLA to be included in her collection.
