His son Charles became bailiff between 1783 and 1799, but the year is uncertain as records for this period are wanting. The accounts include a valuation of the estate made in 1772 by George Sangslor, as directed by Thomas South, then steward of the estate. This gives annual realization from farm rentals and cutting of timber as 280. Receipts for payment for work done on the estate by the Shepherd family and other tenents indicate repairs made, wood cut, et cetera. Receipts for 1799 bear a two- pence stamp. Land tax, poor rates, and church rates are also noted.
