Scope and Content
Ottoman history. The main title is a Turkish translation of a Persian original. This is a genealogy of kings and prophets including the Ottoman House. The text is dedicated to Sultan Süleyman the Magnificent (r. 1520- 1566). However, the list of Ottoman sultans is written up to the enthronement of Selim II in 1566 and is abruptly ended. This title spans leaves 36b-50b but is incomplete and only contains one leaf from the family tree of the Mamluk sultanate of Egypt and the leaves covering the Ottoman House up to Selim II. The second title is a chart of genealogy of kings and prophets extracted from the history of Nisanc? (see mss. 48 below). It culminates in the name of Murad IV (r. 1623 to 1640 ). However, a second hand has added in the margin a list of the noteworthy events of his reign. Then, on the following list, later and less elaborate illustrations of various sultans has been added to continue the chronology up to the reign of Sultan Mahmud II (180839) .

General Physical Description note: Layout: 26 lines of text per page.
Script: Nastál?q and Naskh.
Binding: Brown canvass on boards with red leather around the edges; fore-edge flap separated and laid in.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red; marginalia; notes tipped and laid in.

Biography
The author of this book is better known to history as Ismail Isfendiyaroglu, brother-in-law of the Ottoman Sultan Mehmed II who conquered Constantinople in 1453. Ismail wrote this book on religious precepts after the sultan removed him from the rule of the city of Sinop on the Black Sea coast

Scope and Content
It treats religious practices and doctrine such as ablution, prayer, mosques, and religious holidays. Translated from various sources for the benefit of "those who do not know Arabic and Persian". Author's name contains two other words which, transliterated by Arabic standard, read "Yaman Jandar" (the second word being Çandarl? in Turkish). The original dates to the early fifteenth-century (DP reference below).

Title (Romanized): [Serh-i] Bostan
Uniform title: Sudi serh-i Bostan
Title (English): [Commentary on the] Orchard
Manuscript number: 116 Date: [16--]?

General Physical Description note: 432 leaves : paper ; 203 x 130 mm. bound to 202 x 130 mm.
General Physical Description note: Layout: 23 lines of text per page.
Script: Nastál?q.
Binding: Faux orange Morocco with burgundy stripe over spine, and flower design paste-downs; fore-edge flap.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red; insect damage.

Biography
Kâtip Çelebi mentions four commentators in his Kashf al- ?unun, but considers Sudi's best of them all, suggesting perhaps greater popularity and making the existence of numerous manuscripts more likely. Also important is the fact that from 139b, marginalia in red ink identifies quotations from Sem'i and Sururi, the other two commentators, who slightly predated Sudi--suggesting that the present commentary has taken material from the commentary of the former two, and is therefore not them but rather a third: i.e. Sudi's.

Scope and Content
A commentary on the Persian Bustan of Sádi, undertaken to facilitate the task of those who set out to learn Persian, presumably by memorizing or studying the original.

Script: Naskh.
Binding: Faded black or burgundy leather with fore-edge flap, and marble paste-downs.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red, green, or blue, enclosed in gilt borders; 1b illuminated.

Biography
The identity of the author inferred from Osmanl? Müellifleri, V. I: 135, as well as Kâtip Çelebi’s Kashf al-?unun, under the original title, where there is also noted a commentary in Turkish by Arap Çelebi (Semsettin ahmet b. Hamza; d. 1543 or 4)

Scope and Content
Translation into Turkish of an Arabic original composed by the fourteenth century al-Ma?bubi, itself being an epitome of a work by al-Marghinani (d. 1196 or 7).

Title (Romanized): [Tercüme-i] Vefayatü‘l-áyan
Title (English): The translation of the Obituaries of notables

Script: Nastál?q.
Binding: Brown leather, inlaid, with fore-edge flap, and pink paste-downs.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red, enclosed in gilt borders; 1b illuminated.

Scope and Content
This is a Turkish translation of Ibn Khallikan’s (1211-1282) biography of Muslim notables. The translation was undertaken in 1676 and was dedicated to a vizier named Mustafa Pasa which must be Merzifonlu Kara Mustafa Pasa who served as vizier from 167683.

Title (Romanized): [Tercüme-i Harîdet’ül-acayip ve feridet’ül-garaib]
Title (English): [The translation of the Untouched among the wonders and the Unique among the curiosities]
Manuscript number: 122 Date: [16--]

General Physical Description note: 246 leaves : paper ; 215 x 141 mm. bound to 217 x 145 mm.
General Physical Description note: Layout: 21 lines of text per page.
Script: Naskh.
Binding: Black leather, blind-stamped, with fore-edge flap; frayed.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red, enclosed in red borders; leaves missing after leaf 1, and at the end.

Scope and Content
A Turkish text about the wonders of the world. The author refers to himself specifically as the translator. On leaf 2a, there is poem written for a certain Osman Pasa. A noted penciled in the margins, in a late 19th/early 20th century hand, equates this person with Osman b. Iskender Pasa. The identification of the title arises from this equation and its correspondence with the relative information in Kâtip Çelebi’s Kashf al-?unun.

General Physical Description note: Layout: 24 lines of text per page.

Script: Nastalīq.

Binding: Brown leather and paper, with fore-edge flap.

Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red; marginalia; leaves missing from the beginning.

Scope and Content

A Turkish commentary of the mystical poem of Rumi (13th century) written in Persian. A random search of twenty verses in this volume showed no correspondence with the index of verses in Nicholson’s edition of the original Mathnawi. Furthermore, the given date of this present commentary’s composition (1626, during the reign of the Ottoman Sultan Murat IV [1623-1640]) corresponds with an important clue in Kâtip Çelebi’s Kashf al-?unun where he states that in the year 1626, Seyh Ismail Mevlevi came up with what he claimed to be a seventh volume of the Mathnawi, otherwise unattested, and wrote a commentary upon it. This was hotly contested as a forgery by the majority of Seyh Ismail’s contemporaries. It appears that the present manuscript is a copy of this spurious seventh volume.

Script: Naskh.
Binding: Fading green marble paper on boards.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red; leaves missing from the end.
Provenance
Mehmet Sa'dullah (note on front endpaper)
Scope and Content
A translation of a treatise on the rules and doctrines of Islam. DP, following Karatay, Fehmi Edhem, Topkapi Sarayi Müzesi Kütüphanesi türcü yazmalar katalogu, mss. 81, suggests that the present manuscript might be the commentary of Burusawi (Yáqub ibn Ali, d. 1524 or 5) on a text by Imam Zadah (Mu?ammad ibn Abi Bakr, 1097 or 8-1177 or 8). However, the first sentence of Burusawi’s translation, quoted by Karatay, does not agree with the first sentence of the present manuscript. Kâtip Çelebi too quotes a number of commentators for an Arabic book of the same title, but the first sentence of none of them matches the present work.
Title (Romanized): [Ebu Müslim-name]?
Title (English): [The story of Abu Muslim]?

Binding: Burgundy leather, with fore-edge flap, and green paste-downs.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, occasional marked words in red; several hands.
Provenance
Bagdatizade Hüseyn Aga (signature and stamp on 1a and 2a).
Scope and Content
This is the first of a three volume work that seems to be the Turkish translation of the Persian Abu Muslim'namah of Abu ?ahir Tarsusi (Mu?ammad ibn ?asan), and begins with the tale of Ahmet Zemci. Ire`ne Melikoff, in her Abu Muslim, le "porte- hache" du Khorassan, dans la tradition epique turco-iranienne also refers to a Zemciname. It is a legendary account of Abu Muslim Abd al-Ra?man ibn Muslim (8th cent.).

Script: Naskh and Nastál?q.
Binding: Faded brown leather.
Additional descriptive data: Text in black ink, marked passages in red; water damage; leaves missing from the beginning.
Biography
Connecting the author with the title using Kâtip Çelebi’s Kashf al- ?unun under the original.
Scope and Content
The author gives the date 1424 and has dedicated the work to Ottoman Sultan Murad II (Murad II (14211444 and 14451451). But Kâtip Çelebi whose Kashf al-?unun has been used to identify the title writes that the author had done the translation in 1462 and dedicated to Ottoman Sultan Mehmet II (14441445, 14511481). If the same title, then this is a translation into Turkish verse of an Arabic original on religious doctrines and regulations composed by the fourteenth century al-Ma?bubi, itself being an epitome of a work by al-Marghinani (d. 1196 or 7).

Biography
Connecting the author with the title using Kâtip Çelebi's Kashf al-?unun under the original.

Scope and Content
The author gives the date 1424 and has dedicated the work to Ottoman Sultan Murad II (Murad II (1421-1444 and 1445-1451). But Kâtip Çelebi whose Kashf al-?unun has been used to identify the title writes that the author had done the translation in 1462 and dedicated to Ottoman Sultan Mehmet II (1444-1445, 1451-1481). If the same title, then this is a translation into Turkish verse of an Arabic original on religious doctrines and regulations composed by the fourteenth century al- Ma?bubi, itself being an epitome of a work by al-Marghinani (d. 1196 or 7).
