Biographical History

Founded in 1962 in Los Angeles, California by Jerry Moss and Herb Alpert, A&M Records became America's largest independent record company. Both men were born in 1935, Alpert in Los Angeles and Moss in New York. The two met in the early 1960s, when Alpert was writing and recording songs and Moss was an independent record promoter. Their social acquaintance quickly became a partnership when in 1962 the two formed Carnival Records, based in Alpert's garage. With contributions of $100 from each man, the company released the single "Tell It to the Birds." After discovering later that year that the Carnival name was already in use, Alpert and Moss created the company's new name from the initials of their last names.

A&M Records' first release, the single "The Lonely Bull" by Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass, came out in August 1962. It reached number six on the Billboard charts and sold some 700,000 copies. Other best-selling Tijuana Brass albums followed, including "Whipped Cream and Other Delights" and "What Now My Love." Led by the success of the Tijuana Brass, A&M revenue topped $50 million by 1968; by the end of the decade the band had sold some 45 million albums.

A&M's roster featured many of the top pop and rock acts from the 1960s, 1970s, and 1980s, including Bryan Adams, Burt Bacharach, Joan Baez, the Baja Marimba Band, the Captain and Tennille, the Carpenters, Cheech and Chong, Joe Cocker, Peter Frampton, Lani Hall, Janet Jackson, Joe Jackson, Sergio Mendes and Brasil '66, the Neville Brothers, Jeffrey Osborne, the Police, Squeeze, Cat Stevens, Sting, Styx, Supertramp, and the Tubes, among many others. A number of jazz composers and performers were also issued by the label, including Gato Barbieri, Quincy Jones and Paul Winter as well as some late recordings by Chet Baker and Stan Getz.

In 1989 Alpert and Moss sold A&M records to PolyGram Records.

Correspondence Series 1. 1959-1992

Scope and Content

Herb Alpert's letters received primarily concern his events and performances with the Tijuana Brass; also Alpert's charitable activities, some fan letters, congratulatory telegrams, and thank yous. A few letters or telegrams are from other musicians. The bulk of Alpert's letters sent are copies of thank you letters, most with original letters received attached.

Jerry Moss's correspondence mostly deals with A&M artists and the label's business activities, including with affiliates and divisions. Gil Friesen's correspondence, president of A&M from 1977-1990, concerns A&M's business, especially legal matters, and Herb Alpert & the Tijuana Brass television specials. Sal Monte's letters, road manager for Herb Alpert & the Tijuana Brass, detail travel and tour arrangements for the band.

Tours and concerts Subseries 1. 1965-1980s

Scope and Content

The bulk of this series consists of tour itineraries for Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass; also present are forms, receipts, equipment lists, and seating charts. In addition, there are two folders of pre-prepared stage banter for the group. A small amount of tour material is present for the Baja Marimba Band, Sergio Mendes and Brasil '66, and a few other A&M artists.

Material is most likely from the files of Herb Alpert & the Tijuana Brass's Road Manager Sal Monte or Assistant Road Manager Bill Earl. See also Sal Monte's correspondence in box 7 for additional tour-related material.
