Biography/History

Morris J. Gelman (Morrie) was born June 19, 1930 in New York City. He attended Pace University and Hunter College, in NY and Santa Monica City College in Santa Monica, CA. Gelman worked as a reporter and editor for over 40 years for companies including the Brooklyn Eagle, New York Post, Newsday, Broadcasting (now Broadcasting & Cable) magazine, Madison Avenue, Advertising Age, Electronic Media (now TV Week), and Daily Variety. During his career as reporter and editor, he covered television and other media fields in New York, Washington, D.C., and Los Angeles. In the early-1970s, he was assigned to interview radio pioneers and travelled the United States doing tape recorded interviews with such luminaries as Edgar Bergen, Frank Stanton and William Paley of CBS, NBC Radio Network's Niles Trammel, and John Royal. In the 1990s Gelman was one of the principal interviewers for the Archive of American Television project of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. Additionally in the 1990s, he co-authored the book, The Best of Television: 50 Years of Emmys.

Scope and Content

The collection consists of writings, research files, and promotional and publicity material related to the career of Morrie Gelman, reporter and editor in the television and media industry. Gelman's writings include The Broadcasting People project, started as a book assignment for Broadcast magazine, Television: 50 Years of Emmys book project, and news pieces and articles published in a variety of communication related publications. Additionally there are research files as well as audio cassette tapes and transcripts of one-on-one interviews used for Gelman's writing projects.

The bulk of publicity and promotional material are press kit-type materials documenting regional and national cable television networks and companies and to a lesser degree network and public television entities and media-related companies. Also included are publicity stills for TV programs, TV movies and/or feature motion pictures aired on television. Additionally there is a small amount of printed materials from events and companies related to the cable, television, and or communication industry.

Writings by Gelman (ca. 1950s-2006)

Scope and Content

Writings by Gelman are arranged into three sub-series: Articles; Broadcasting People project; and Best in Television: 50 Years of Emmys book project. Files within each subseries are arranged alphabetically by names, subjects, or file titles that reflect the content of the folder. A portion of the file titles were created or enhanced by the processor.

Articles are a sampling of news pieces and articles written by Gelman over his long career. Included are letters from readers commenting about Gelman's writings; news pieces and articles published in a variety of communication related publications; and audio cassette tapes and transcripts of one-on-one interviews conducted by Gelman with individuals in the entertainment and cable industry - research created specifically for his writings.

The Broadcasting People project, started as a book assignment for Broadcast magazine, and documents Gelman's travels across the US interviewing pioneers in the broadcasting industry. Gelman conducted the research and assembled the files for the book, but left the company before the project was completed and subsequently published under a different title by Broadcast magazine. Included are letters to and from Gelman regarding his inquiries for interviews and information; audio cassette tapes and an incomplete set of transcripts of one-on-one interviews conducted by Gelman - created specifically for the project; and research notes for the project.

The Television: 50 Years of Emmys book project was born out of Gelman's assignment covering the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences (ATAS). The files are a mix of legal documents, draft manuscript pages for the book, original and photocopied photographs considered for the publication, a small number of reviews and research. Research consists of clippings, notes, and audio cassette tapes of one-on-one interviews conducted by Gelman - created specifically for the project. The files are arranged alphabetically by the file titles some enhanced by the processor.

Publicity and Promotional Material (ca. 1970s-1996)
Scope and Content

The series includes a variety of publicity and promotional materials collected by Gelman during his forty-year career as reporter and editor in the television and media industry. The series is divided into four sub-series: Annual Reports; Catalogs; Press kits; and Publicity Stills.

The Annual Reports are promotional in nature, and are from companies in or related to the cable or television industries. The reports are arranged alphabetically by company name and cover the 1970s-1980s. The small number Catalogs include promotional products and sales catalogs for videos, books, and other promotional merchandise and are arranged alphabetically by company name. Most of the catalogs are undated.

The Press kit materials include information about programs and programming, networks, companies, products, services and/or events predominately related to cable television and to a lesser degree public television, network television, and/or home video. Presents companies such as Cinemax, Disney, HBO, PBS and its affiliates, Showtime, Turner Broadcasting System (TBS), and Turner Network Television (TNT), among others. The files are arranged alphabetically by program title, event, service (when known), or company name. Most of press kits are not dated; dated material ranges from the 1970s-1990s.

Publicity Stills include promotional/publicity stills for TV programs, TV movies and/or feature motion pictures aired on cable, network, or public television, and/or for home video release. Represents companies such as Cinemax, Disney, Fox, HBO, New World Video, and PBS, among others. Some stills have originally been part of press kits or press releases. The stills are arranged alphabetically by company or network name. The stills date from the 1950s-1990s; the bulk of the stills are from the 1980s.
