Historical note

The current Classics Department at UCLA originates from a small department called "Classical Languages," formed in 1919 at the inception of UCLA and consisting of one professor and six classes. In 1922, a second professor joined the department and classes in ancient Greek were added to the curriculum. By 1965, the faculty numbered 12 members responsible for courses in Latin and Greek and another six members responsible for Indo-European studies (Hungarian, Finnish, Celtic, Irish, and the ancient languages of Sanskrit and Hittite); and programs leading to the master and doctoral degrees were instituted.

Scope and Content

Record Series 301 contains reports generated by the Classics Department at the University of California, Los Angeles. Files include annual reports, Chair's reports, and other reports regarding the operation of the Classics Department.

This is an active record series; additional University records are expected to be added.
