Conditions Governing Access
This collection is currently being processed. Once processing is complete, the collection will be open for research and selected material will be digitized and made available online. The collection is located at the University of California, Merced Library. For help locating material and making a research request please contact library@ucmerced.edu.

Arrangement
This collection is currently arranged into 3 series. The first series is comprised of state level annual reports compiled from county reports for the years 1943-1966. Material in this series is arranged chronologically. The second series consists of audio visual material. It is arranged by film title. Titles may contain various copies of A reels, B reels, and magnetic reels. Many of the reels are in poor condition and will require conservation and digitization prior to researcher access. The third series is comprised of 6 linear feet of as yet unprocessed material including photographs and documents. The arrangement of the third series will be updated after processing.

Biographical / Historical
At the turn of the previous century, growing concern over the quality of life for rural Americans prompted President Theodore Roosevelt to appoint a Commission on Country Life in 1908. One of the direct outcomes of the Commission’s recommendations was the passage of the Smith-Lever Act in 1914, which established a national extension service to place the knowledge generated at land-grant universities into the hands of farmers and rural citizens. The Agricultural Extension Service formalized and built upon existing efforts of land-grant universities to enhance the knowledge of farmers and apply scientific discoveries for improved agricultural practices. Beginning in 1913, the Agriculture Extension Service, later known as UC Cooperative Extension, placed farm advisors employed by the University of California in every county that formed a Farm Bureau and agreed to sponsor Extension Service work. While arrangements have evolved, advisors continue to work in all California counties today and address problems ranging from soil conditions and land reclamation to irrigation; from livestock breeding to improved varietals; and from mechanization to disease and pest management, to enable farms to increase efficiency and productivity.
