Biography

From the Amazon.com summary of "Citizen Stan" dvd:

This film profiles a man who rose from humble beginnings to influence politics on a world stage. Stanley Sheinbaum has shaped foreign policy with Prime Ministers, Presidents and Kings. His loyalty to friends and freedom sometimes meant taking great risks. His dedication to peace in the Middle East and opening a dialogue with both sides has put him at odds with people right in his own backyard. His life story holds lessons of character and history, and illustrates the conviction it takes to change our world. Directed by Patty Sharaf. With journalist Robert Scheer. Narrated by Richard Dreyfuss. Interviews with Daniel Ellsberg, Margaret and Nicholas Papandreou, wife and son of the late Greek Prime Minister, former Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl Gates, PLO Negotiator Nabil Shaath, Congresswoman Maxine Waters, Warren Beatty, Jesse Jackson. Synopsis: Growing up in New York's rag trade, the teen-aged Sheinbaum joined the US army effort in WW2, photo-screening maps onto silk for aviators to use. A kid who had done poorly in high school, he used the GI bill to work for a doctorate in economics at Stanford. In 1954, Sheinbaum landed a teaching job at Michigan State University. He also became co-director of the Vietnam Project at MSU. Under the auspices of the University, the project was hiring men to go to South Vietnam and set up a police force. Stanley Sheinbaum was the man doing the hiring. On a disillusioning trip to Saigon to check on his work, Sheinbaum realized men he had hired were now part of the CIA. Later he came to learn they were using torture to interrogate Vietcong prisoners. Sheinbaum left the MSU project to join the first independent think-tank, the Robert Maynard Hutchins Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara. One day journalist Robert Scheer confronted Sheinbaum about his role in the Vietnam Project. Much to his surprise, Sheinbaum was a cooperative witness. He and Scheer joined rank, traveling to Vietnam in 1966 to investigate the war. The two men rode a puddle jumper through Cambodia, looking for the path of the Ho Chi Minh trail. Fully at odds with Johnson's the best and the brightest, they were trying to head off the bombing of neutral Cambodia. In Saigon, Sheinbaum locked horns with his younger brother Gil, who had become the advisor to the American ambassador, Ellsworth Bunker. Meanwhile, Stanley Sheinbaum ran for congress in Santa Barbara on an anti-war platform in 1966 and again in 1968. During the Pentagon Papers trial, Sheinbaum organized the defense of Daniel Ellsberg and landed on Nixon's enemies list. Sheinbaum's commitment to the cause of peace has taken him to Greece, Palestine, and the streets of Los Angeles. Don't miss this incredible life story.

A copy of "Citizen Stan" has been cataloged separately for Special Collections.

Stanley K. Sheinbaum: A 20th Century Knight's Quest for Peace, Civil Liberties and Economic Justice, by Stanley K. Sheinbaum, with William A. Meis, Jr. (2011) traces Sheinbaum's life in memoir form. A copy has been included in the Personal/Biographical section of this collection and another copy has been cataloged separately for Special Collections.

Additional biographical information about Stanley K. Sheinbaum may be found in this collection, in the Biographical/Personal series, and elsewhere throughout the collection.

Series XV: Ramparts Magazine mainly 1965-1974*Additional Note

Files re SKS' involvement with Ramparts Magazine, as director on the board, associate editor, and financial supporter (with wife Betty). Includes correspondence, board minutes, financial reports, articles, and other. Ramparts was the magazine that published the Stanley K. Sheinbaum and Robert Scheer article on CIA involvement in the Michigan State Vietnam Project in the 1950s, which Sheinbaum had headed until 1959 (see April 1966 issue of Ramparts). This also is covered in chapter one of Angus Mackenzie's Secrets: The CIA's War at Home (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 1997). Microfilm copy of Ramparts is included in the Underground Newspaper Microfilm Project. See also: MSU and Vietnam Files. See also: Vietnam - Michigan State University files, and Additions: May 2012. 2 cartons.

Series XVI: University of California Regents

Additional Note

SKS was a Regent of the University of California, 1977-1989. During this time, two of the most important issues facing the Regents were divestiture of investments in companies operating in apartheid-era South Africa (which SKS supported) and the continuing role of UC in running nuclear weapons research laboratories for the federal government (which SKS opposed). See also: Additions - May 2012.

General 1977-1999

Files kept by SKS mainly during his tenure as UC Regent [1977-1989], at a time when UC was involved in divestment of South African investments, due to the political situation there. Files include correspondence, annual and other reports, newspaper and magazine articles, committee minutes, information gathered by SKS during a Nov-Dec. 1978 trip to Africa, and other. A few files relate to other African countries such as Southern Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe). Arranged alphabetically. 7 cartons. Related collection at UC Berkeley - Bancroft Library: CU-312.
