Biographical Note
Californian James Alfred “Bud” Bottoms (1928-2018) was a founding member of GOO! (Get Oil Out!) in Santa Barbara, California in the aftermath of the 1969 Santa Barbara oil spill. In addition to his activities as an environmental activist, Bottoms worked as an art instructor at Santa Barbara High School for a time, and turned to sculpting, specializing in statues of marine mammals that now adorn the waterfronts of such cities as Santa Barbara, California and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. All of Bottoms’ four sons (Timothy, Joseph, Sam, and Ben Bottoms) acted in Hollywood films, including Apocalypse Now! (Joseph Bottoms) and The Last Picture Show (Timothy Bottoms). Bud Bottoms appeared in the 1978 film The Other Side of the Mountain: Part II.
Scope and Content
Materials collected by Bud Bottoms over the course of his involvement with GOO! (Get Oil Out!). Files contain oil-related clippings and graphics by Bottoms and artist Don Freeman, as well as correspondence, ephemera, and research files maintained by Bottoms over the years. The collection also contains a small selection of slides of the Santa Barbara Channel and beaches in the aftermath of the 1969 Santa Barbara oil spill.
In addition to the smaller clippings and sketches, the collection contains larger drawings for posters about the 1969 oil spill and GOO!-related events, including a number by Don Freeman, as well as larger GOO!-related artifacts.
