Arranged in four series: 1) BIOGRAPHICAL, 2) CORRESPONDENCE, 3) WRITINGS, and 4) EDITING.

Biography

Born in Los Angeles in 1942, Louis Richard Rowan, Jr. was educated on the East Coast, earning a bachelor's degree in history at Harvard University in 1964 and a master's degree in English at New York University in 1969. He also studied theology at Union Theological Seminary in New York. Rowan held teaching and upper management positions at the Manhattan School and at Friends Seminary from 1968 to 1980, after which he switched careers to investment banking at Bankers Trust Company in New York and Frank Russell Company in Tacoma, Washington.

Rowan began his writing career as a student in the 1960s in New York, influenced by the New York School, Louis Zukofsky, and the Black Mountain and Objectivist poets. After his careers in teaching and banking, Rowan began writing full-time in 2003 in the Pacific Northwest. He has published fiction, poetry, and critical essays. Much of his writing is experimental and crosses genres. Rowan has edited the poetry journals Friendly Local Press from 1968 to 1971 and 1986 to 1989 and Golden Handcuffs Review since 2002.

WRITINGS

Scope and Content of Series

Series 3) WRITINGS: Drafts, manuscripts, notebooks, correspondence, notes, artwork, and reviews for Rowan's published and unpublished writings. Arranged in six subseries: A) Notebooks and Journals, B) Poetry and Drama, C) Short Fiction, D) Essays, E) Books, and F) Freelance Projects.

- A) Notebooks and Journals: Rowan's notebooks and journals include drafts of writings, personal notes, and journal entries. Several early drafts for Rowan's books can be found in his notebooks. A hunting log from 1954-1955 includes photographs of the Rowan family. Arranged chronologically.
- B) Poetry and Drama: Drafts and notes for poems and plays by Rowan, including English translations of poet Paul Eluard. Rowan grouped his shorter poems by date, and as he often worked on poems years after writing the original version, drafts of a single poem can appear in more than one folder. The subseries also includes several short plays written by Rowan. Arranged chronologically.
- C) Short Fiction: Drafts and notes for short stories by Rowan, including epistolary writings and satires. Includes a folder of drawings by Rowan. Arranged chronologically, with undated drafts arranged alphabetically at the end.
- D) Essays: Drafts, notes and correspondence for Rowan's essays and reviews. The subseries includes essays on literature written while Rowan was a graduate student at New York University, a translation of Jean-Paul Sartre, a talk for Benedictine College, and sermons and field reports written while Rowan was a student in theology. Rowan also used the pseudonym Richard L. Lewis while writing for Golden Handcuffs Review. Arranged chronologically, with undated drafts arranged alphabetically at the end.
- E) Books: Drafts, manuscripts, notes, correspondence, reviews and artwork for Rowan's published and unpublished works of poetry, fiction, and biography. Rowan's fiction includes My Last Days (2007) and its sequel, Our Last Days, two autobiographies of Superman; Alphabet of Love Serial (2015), a collection of short stories; A Mystery's No Problem, (2016) and it's precursor, Interlude; and Corpus, an alternate history of the United States. Works of poetry include Your Pages Are Not Numbered (1968); Let Leaves; an untitled manuscript for a book of poetry; and a handmade book of poetry and fiction. The subseries also includes a biography of Seattle entrepreneur Linda Farris. Some early drafts of Rowan's books can be found in the Notebooks and Journals subseries. Arranged chronologically.
- F) Freelance Projects: Notes and drafts for advertising copy and biographies written for businesses and individuals on a freelance basis.
